VOL XVII. NO. 73. TOLEDO, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 18, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

IN THE BEE TO-DAY

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Toledo, O., July 18, 1892.

There is an area of "low" pressure covering the eastern Rocky mountain slope, having moved eastward from the North Pacific coast during the past 24 hours. It has caused rains as far east as Wisconsin and as far south as Missouri, but they have been local. The following are the heavy rain falls reported during the past 24 hours: Charleston, S. C., 8.06 inches; Moorhead, 1.78; Kansas City, .98; St. Paul, .74; Duluth, .60.

The area of high pressure covers the entire country east of the Mississippi and south of the lake region, and has caused fair weather to prevail generally over that section. The temperature in all sections of the country is about the normal and will rise slightly to-day, with exception of the extreme northwest, where it has fallen and will remain stationary.

Southerly winds will prevail over the lake region.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity—Fair, slightly warmer.

E. A. HANNER, Observer.

Forecast for Ohio—Fair weather, followed by local showers Tuesday afternoon or night; southwesterly winds; warmer in southeast portion.

For Indiana—Increasing cloudiness, followed by local showers to-night or tomorrow; southwesterly winds; warmer in southern portion.

For Illinois—Showers to-day or to-night, followed by clearing weather; southwesterly winds; slightly warmer.

For Michigan—Generally fair, followed by local showers to-night or to-morrow; southerly winds.

For Wisconsin—Showers, followed by clearing weather; winds shifting to westerly.

HANGED HIMSELF.

Columbus, O., July 18.—At 9 o'clock Saturday night Frank Rollin, a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary, sent up last May from Ottawa county for burglary, hanged himself in his cell by a clothes string attached to a wire fastened to his bedhook. In his stocking was found a letter confessing that in 1888 he and Samuel Potts murdered a man in Saginaw, Mich., but giving no names.

EVERY MAN LOYAL

Not a Mechanic Put in an Appearance

At the Homestead Mills, as Ordered by Potter.

No Hint of Disorder, but Everybody Vigilant.

Machinery Men Stand by the Strikers.

No Local Men Can be Found to Work for Carnegie Until the Present Trouble With the Association is Settled.

Homestead, Pa., July 18.—At 6 o'clock this morning the watchmen threw open the main gate in the two mile fence that surrounds the great steel mills of the Carnegie company and peered into the dense fog outside to see if the men in the mechanical department were beginning to arrive.

The shadowy form of a soldier on guard was the only sign of life visible and the faithful watchman withdrew to the shelter of the office porch.

He waited patiently for the appearance of the five or six hundred mechanics who were notified to report for duty and begin repairs preliminary to the starting of the mills.

A United Press reporter also waited patiently. A few minutes before 7 one man arrived and was admitted without question, and then came another and another until twelve had passed in the gates.

They were not the mechanics who were summoned.

They were former employes returning to make application for their old positions.

They were the watchmen and foremen who have remained loyal to the company and have been on duty since the mills shut down.

And thus did the week open.

Not one of the skilled mechanics reported at the offices despite the official notice of Superintendent Potter.

Work did not commence at the usual time to-day. These mechanics are not only experts in their several lines, but they are familiar with every machine and every furnace in the Carnegie works. To fill their places will be extremely difficult as the appliances at the Carnegie mills are in advance of those of any steel works in this country. Even if men capable of doing the work are found, it will be no easy matter to induce them to work under guard.

All night long the strikers' pickets patrolled the river front and not a man was smuggled into the works. Pickets also watched the gates this morning and any deserter from their ranks who entered would have been reported.

The usual number of watchmen and clerks who go to the mills daily were not interferred with in any way, but any new man who applies will certainly have unpleasant experiences if he shows his face in town again.

The unanimous decision of all the employes of the Carnegie works who are not members of the Amalgamated association and, who number some 2,000, at their meeting yesterday to stand out with the steel workers to the end has made the entire force of the Homestead mills a unit and the company cannot hope to obtain a man from Homestead without first settling with the association.

"TIMES AND ECHO."

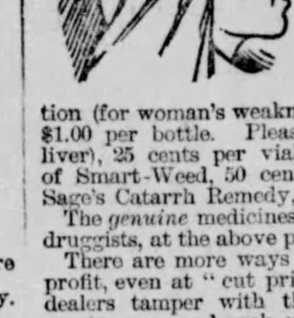
A London Journal Discusses the Homestead Affair.

New York, July 18.—A dispatch from London says: Referring to the Homestead troubles, the Times and Echo, the leading organ of the trades unionists and working classes generally, says: "The only remedy for the present condition of affairs throughout the labor world is the substitution of national corporations for capitalistic competition. Mere private combinations binding the employers on one hand and trade unions of workmen on the other, will never do any real good. They have done some good—trades unions especially, but at their best they are but armed bodies, waging war, and all war is immoral, wasteful and pernicious.

"There must be in the near future, national co-operation, for the acquisition and development and direction of all industry, in which only the workers shall have part and share, and in which there shall be no temptation to make unfair profits, because all profits will be shared by the workers alike. Competition, it says, is crushing the life out of labor, and yet strangely enough the employers grow richer and richer, and praise competition as full of all sorts of blessings.

"The paper goes on in this radical strain: 'Competition has long ceased to be the struggles for the survival of the fittest; it is now simply a battle of the strongest and most unscrupulous, and in this battle those who are the most reckless in their adulterations, in their misrepresentations to buyers, in their oppression of their workmen, in their fraudulent appropriation of capital, must win if they have ordinary business capacity and energy. They do win everywhere. There is little or no honest trading left in England to-day. There is little or no honest work done, because the employers has so handicapped the worker, so thoroughly taught him the art of making things seem what is wanted and not to be such, that the art of doing really honest work is half forgotten. Meanwhile the great capitalists grow richer year by year.'

"The small masters are crushed out everywhere, and so, few teachers are left of the arts and crafts. The large employer runs three or four or a dozen businesses, each superintended by managers who are bullied if the yearly rate of profit is not maintained, and who are consequently careless of every other condition. Pharaoh is in his palace, drowned in the sensual enjoyment of the vast tribute of the slaves he never sees. The taskmasters are the bond-thralls' only embodiment of true masterhood. If this horrible condition of things to which we have come continues, and grows in evil intensity as grow it must, there is no possible end of it all but national decay, preceded probably by fearful scenes of revolutionary violence. What is the remedy?"



Don't be hoodwinked by dealers who pretend that they can sell Dr. Pierce's genuine medicines at less than these long-established prices: Golden Medical Discovery (for Liver, Blood and Lung Diseases), $1.00 per bottle. Favorite Prescription (for woman's weaknesses and ailments), $1.00 per bottle. Pleasant Pellets (for the liver), 25 cents per vial. Compound Ext. of Smart-Weed, 50 cents per bottle. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, 50 cents per bottle. The genuine medicines can only be sold by druggists, at the above prices.

There are more ways than one to make a profit, even at "cut prices." Unscrupulous dealers tamper with the bottles, or refill empty ones—and such mixtures can be sold cheaply. But every bottle of Dr. Pierce's genuine medicines is guaranteed. If it fails to give satisfaction in any case, you have your money back.

Can anything else, at any price, be really as cheap? You pay only for value received.

COST OF STEEL.

An Interesting Statement Published in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, July 18.—A Sunday paper says: "When the congressional committee held its investigation at the Monongahela house during last week, its chief object was to discover the exact amount of money expended in the manufacture of a ton of steel. On three different occasions, while Mr. Frick was testifying, he was asked this question, and as many times refused to answer. The Homestead workmen who were witnesses did all in their power to obtain figures, but it was useless, and the congressmen returned to the capitol minus this valuable information. The greatest caution was exercised to prevent the publication of those figures; but even with the most vigilant watch the cost of making a ton of basic O. H. and acid O. H. have been secured. These grades are more expensive than the Bessemer 4x4 billets, but admitting this, the reader will be enabled to discern for himself the vast profits in the manufacture of steel, and particularly at Homestead.

The official figures, as taken right from the books of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., are:

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 28, 1889.

Average cost of charge in acid and basic open hearth at the Homestead Steel works.

"Acid O. H."

Lucy special pig iron, $00.010,515 per pound, 18,000 pounds, value $189.24.

Bessemer crops, 47,000 pounds, $00.110,267 per pound, value $482.58.

Bessemer iron ore Republic, 2,000 pounds, $00.055,344 per pound, value $7.01.

Ferrno Manganese, 500 pounds, $00.027,790 per pound, $13.90.

Total charge, 67,500 pounds, per pound, $30.7, value, $692.73; tons, $22.99.

Product.

Ingots, 60,750 pounds, 27.12 tons, 90 per cent.

Scrap, 2,700 pounds, 1.20 tons, 4 per cent.

Loss, 4,050 pounds, 1.81 tons, 6 per cent.

Total cost of charge $692.73, less value of scraps, $27.00, gives $665.73 actual cost of 27.12 tons of ingots, making the cost per ton of ingots $24.54.

Labor $1.65, maintenance and repairs, 80.42, superintendence, clerical help and office expenses, .37; total cost per ton, $26.98.

Basic O. H.

Low Silician 10,000 pounds, $.009 per pound, value $90.00.

Cast mill scrap 8,000 pounds, $0075 per pound, value $60.00.

Miswrought scrap 2,000 pounds, $.01 per pound, value $120.00.

Pit scrap 2,000 pounds, $.01 per pound, value $20.

Iron ore 1,360 poudns, $.0035 per pound, vaule $4.76.

Ferro Manganese 240 pounds, $028 per pound, $6.72.

Total charge 33,600 pounds, value $301.48; 15 tons, 600 pounds, $20.10.

Product.

Total cost of charge, $301.48; less value of scrap, $13.46; gives $288.37, actual cost of 13.5 tons of ingots, making the cost per ton of ingots $21.36.

Labor, $1.90; maintenance and repairs, 70 cents; superintendence, clerical help and office expenses, 45 cents; total cost per ton, $24.41.

As will be seen, the above figures governed the wages of the men in December, 1889, at which time the men were working under a sliding scale of $30 a ton. The reductions since then are well known, as there was a drop every three months, until it reached the minimum. On July 5, 1889, according to the Pittsburg quotations of the American Manufacturer, whose figures are accepted by both sides in the averagement of wages, acid O. H. steel was selling at 2 3-4 cents per pound, or $55 a ton; the first cost of production was $26.98. Then in order to be just, it is necessary to enumerate the expense attached of rolling a ton of acid O. H. into plate and also the slabbing and the total cost of one ton is reached, $41. With the market quotations at that time, it is readily seen that the profit to the Carnegie company per ton runs exactly $14. Two per cent. off is allowed on their figures for cash sales.

The figures on the basic O. H. vary but little; the cost per ton, quoted selling price, etc., would net a profit of something like $16 a ton.

As previously stated, since then the minimum basis has dropped, reductions in all departments accepted, and the cost of the labor made much lower.

President Weihe, of the Amalgamated association, was shown the figures and he said: "According to the original agreement made in 1889, it was expressly stipulated that the basis of scale should be regulated by the quoted selling price of Bessemer 4x4 steel billets. Open hearth steel is a finer grade, and commands a higher price, but the Homestead men manufacture it on the Bessemer billet basis. The present selling price of 4x4 billets is $24 a ton; and for this reason the men, recognizing the condition of the market, agreed to come down to a $24 minimum basis. Mr. Frick first wanted it $22, and then conceded $23. If these rates were accepted, just think of the increased profits the company would receive. In July, 1889, Bessemer pig was quoted at $16.35. In the same month of 1892 it was quoted at $14 a ton, showing a decrease of $2.35. The average quotation of steel plates is $1.80 per 100 pounds, which makes $36 a ton at 2,000 pounds per ton. Now, remember that the men are paid on a basis of 2,240 pounds to the ton. This proves that the company is 240 pounds ahead on the deal. The figures published are certainly strong evidence, and had these rates been in the possession of the Homestead men while the congressmen were here, they would have made mighty strong arguments."

When a reporter visited Homestead and displayed the figures to the leaders of the men, they were almost dumbfounded. At first they refused to believe they were bona fide; but after scrutinizing the difference it was admitted that they were indeed truthful figures. Although they all along had an idea of the cost and could present figures, yet they could not swear as to the truth of them. Geo. Dylands, one of the best posted men on wage rates at Homestead, and who presented such strong testimony on behalf of the men, said:

"The only thing lacking is the cost of the Bessemer 4x4 billets. This, if once secured, would knock Mr. Frick silly in his figures on wages paid the men during May. However, one can gain a good idea of the profit made on the other grades of steel by perusing the figures printed."

Other leaders also viewed it, and there is a possibility that they will take action. This action will likely consist in giving another answer to the firm.

ANOTHER LOCKOUT.

The West Superior Iron and Steel Company Draws Their Fire.

Superior, Wis., July 18.—Saturday night the roller mills of the West Superior Iron and Steel Co. were shut down, fires were drawn, tools put away and arrangements apparently made for a continued inactivity, if necessary.

The men who were supposed to be in any way connected with the Amalgamated association, or who had taken any part in their recent demand for the adoption of the scale, were discharged by a notice in writing.

Manager Mattes will say nothing of his plans, except that he will not recognize the association at any event.

The men were surprised, and it is sure a secret meeting was held, but nothing could be learned as to its purpose.

Whether the men in other departments of the works will go out is not known. About 200 men are affected.

A BOGUS LAND COMPANY

Consul Burchard Charged With Fraud.

The Honduras Banana Company Lives Only in the Imagination of the Projector.

Omaha, Neb., July 18.—W. J. Stevenson, a lawyer of Aurora, Neb., accuses Wm. C. Burchard, for many years United States consul at Ruatan, Honduras, of obtaining money from American citizens by fraud and deceit under cover of pretending to open a large plantation on a river in Central America.

"The Burchard Honduras Fruit company," was incorporated in Chicago for the cultivation and handling of bananas. Burchard stated that he had secured from the Honduras government a grant of 40,000 acres of choice banana lands on the north coast of Honduras, title to which would be secured by the payment to the government of 25 cents an acre.

Among the many who were induced to take stock in the concern was Mr. Stevenson. Before investing very heavily he determined to investigate the matter, and for that purpose sent W. W. Sherberger, ex-sheriff of this county, to Honduras. He reported the whole thing a fraud and Stevenson filed charges against Burchard.

"SAM" SCHAFFER DEAD.

Columbus, O., July 18.—Samuel Schaffer, clerk of the Ohio sinking commission, an honored war veteran, and a well-known newspaper reporter, died at 8 a. m. Sunday of a complication of disorders resulting from a gunshot wound received in the late war. He was aged 49 years, and leaves a wife but no family. He was born in Mt. Gilead, learned his trade in Muncie, Ind., and enlisted in the beginning of the war, serving until injured in the left hip. He corresponded for the old Cincinnati Gazette, later the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, for 20 years, and did political work for other well-known Ohio papers. The Columbus Press club met and appointed a committee to draft resolutions.

HUNTING SMALLPOX.

Port Townsend, Wash., July 18.—Telegraphic instructions have been received from the treasury department ordering deputy collectors of customs at sub-ports on Puget sound to refer the entry of vessels from foreign ports to the quarantine officer at this port. This order will continue in effect until the smallpox epidemic abates in Victoria.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Amelia, O., July 18.—Whooping cough has invested this village. The attack is virulent and spares neither child nor adult. Out of a population of 600 at least 450 persons have it. Even the domestic animals are stricken, and deaths are numerous. More adults than children have died.

BARN BURNED.

Dalton, O., July 18.—The large frame bank barn of David Morrow, who lives two miles west of here, was totally consumed by fire Sunday while the family were attending church. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss about $3,000 with insurance of $1,500.

THE WESTERN MINERS

The Militia in Full Control of Shoshone County.

Will Probably be Guarded for Two Months.

Latest Reports from the Scene of Trouble Between Union and Non-Union Miners.

Wallace, Idaho, July 18.—The military orders were put in full force Saturday night and this section of country has all the appearances and drawbacks of a district under martial law. No one can travel on the railroads because the roads have been forbidden to carry persons from points in Shoshone county.

All the places where outbreaks are likely to occur are under the guard of the soldiery, and peace prevails. Even the report that the non-union miners would be taken back to Wardner and protected did not create any unusual excitement, nor incite any disapproval.

Despite the passive aspect of affairs here the trouble is not over. Gen. Carlin and staff arrived last night from Wardner and left after a short stay for Mullane, where the strikers are most numerous and best prepared for resistance.

The rioters, hearing of the approach of the troops, managed for the most part to get away. Only a few arrests were made, among them, Justice of the Peace Fraser and Postmaster Marsh, both sympathizers with the cause of the union men. It is thought that Marsh was arrested more as a witness than a culprit. Both are newspaper men. Fraser edited a weekly paper in the mines, and Marsh was at one time on a Chicago paper. The troops that went up to Burke met with more success. Capt. Bubb stationed his men from the depot to the mouth of the mines, and when the miners were hoisted they were marched straight away to the train. Eleven miners and two leading citizens were brought here and put under guard.

A company of infantry left yesterday for Gem, with instructions to protect property there.

The troops will remain here for at least 60 days. Arrests of all leading members of the Miners' union are now being made.

In all 250 men have been arrested here.

Several fugitives have been arrested at Murray or north of Gold Fork on the Couer D'Alene river. They were there trying to get out of the country. It is evident that the strikers have been conquered for the present. What they may attempt when the military is withdrawn is another question.

While it is not probable that any efforts will be made by the Miners' union to deliver those arrested, they are alert for any chance to make trouble. The non-union men will resume work at once. All the mines are being fortified so as to be impregnable to future assaults.

The imprisoned miners are sullen and seem dazed by the suddenness with which the non-union men were restored to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan.

The western part of Wallace at the mouth of Placer creek is now a tented field. Eight companies of troops arrived from Fort Keogh, Mont., yesterday and will be distributed in the various positions of the mining district.

The entire command here was suddenly called to arms at 11 o'clock yesterday, to search the neighboring hills in hopes of capturing the miners who have been in hiding. Six were arrested. Many of the miners have families, and to-day many wives and children were seen about the camp seeking the privilege of speaking to the head of the family, who is held prisoner. In most instances this privilege was granted. It is probable the entire body of miners under arrest will be tried in the United States court for contempt, though some other prisoners will have to answer to a charge of murder.

A detachment of troops went to Murray yesterday and brought Frank Reed, the murderer of R. W. Stevens, to Wallace for safe keeping, as threats of lynching were heard on all hands, and a well organized mob had planned to attack the jail last night.

Spokane, Wash., July 18.—Several hundred persons are now huddled in school houses, empty warehouses and a base ball stockade. They are closely guarded and cannot hope to escape. A number of leading spirits in the insurrection are still at large. Among these are Breen and Dallas, who came here from Butte to direct the campaign. It is reported that the Montana unions are indignant at the way the fight has been carried on, claiming that Breen and Dallas have held back their cause for years. Other leaders still at large are Pettibone, Glover, Tobin and Sweeny.

H. S. Scott, a special correspondent of the Review, who came in last night from the front says he was informed by officers at Cataldo that it was a positive fact that five dead bodies and a number of wounded men were picked up in Fourth of July canon. Scott is the man who was ordered out of Wallace because his paper denounced the outrages.

A large number of fugitive non-union men are gathered here. They huddle together and seem to be dazed over their rough experience, but are willing to go back to work as soon as quiet has been a little restored. It is the general impression, both at Couer D'Alene and here, that a permanent garrison ought to be maintained on the mines. Unless this is done that section during the next year will be the theater of many dark and bloody crimes of revenge.

ON HIS WAY TO FRANCE

Palacio Has Sailed Away From Bordeaux.

The Conservatives Characterized as a Mob of Lying Scoundrels, Without Patriotism or Honor

Bordeaux, July 18.—Ex-President Palacio, of Valencia, left yesterday for Paris. Before leaving he made the following statement:

"The troubles in Venezuela are entirely due to the machinations of the conservative party, who are ever ready to sow discord among the people."

He characterized the conservatives as a "mob of lying and cheating scoundrels without patriotism or honor," and declared that Gen. Crespo maintained his hostile attitude after he (Palacio) left the country, notwithstanding promises that the arms of the revolutionists would be laid down as soon as Palacio left the country. The ex-president has not resolved upon any plans for the future, but will probably remain in Paris for some time.

PURCHASED BY THE STANARD.

Newark, N. J., July 18.—The New Jessey Oil company has been purchased by the Standard Oil company.

WENT UP IN A BALLOON,

And Came Down in a Badly Broken Up Condition.

Providence, R. I., July 18.—Prof. Jas. K. Allen, eldest son of Prof. Allen, the well known aerial navigator, Charles E. Albee, his assistant, Edward Barnett, a trapeze performer, and a Journal reporter made a balloon ascension from the Dexter training field Saturday. A brisk breeze was blowing, and through the inability of the men to move the bags of ballast in the basket in time, the drag line became entangled in the trees. The balloon nearly turned over as it shot across the roofs of residences, colliding with chimneys and telegraph and electric light wires. At Lester street the car struck several telegraph wires and Prof. Allen was thrown out with coils of rope and the anchor, falling 60 feet to the street.

His left leg is broken in two places, his knee badly fractured, his right and left hands badly sprained and his body badly bruised. When thrown out he held the cord attached to the safety valve, and ripped open the balloon its entire length.

The ship then changed its course and descended rapidly, and collapsed upon the roof of a stable. The car came in contact with the door and the men were thrown with terrific force through the netting into a window, and somewhat bruised.

Barnett and Albee were thrown against the side of the building sustaining slight injuries. Prof. Allen was taken to the hospital in the ambulance, where the physicians attended him. Upon making an examination they failed to discover any internal injuries.

Miss Mamie Allen, daughter of the aeronaut, was a witness of the accident, and was thrown into violent hysterics. She remained several hours unconscious.

ELKINS FOR GOVERNOR

Steve Would Like to Run West Virginia.

The Secretary is Growing Weary of Playing Second Fiddle to Benjamin.

New York, July 18.—A Parkersburg, W. Va., special to the World says that information has been received there to the effect that Secretary Elkins is desirous that the republicans of West Virginia tender him the nomination for governor this fall.

The dispatch further says that Internal Revenue Collector White says that the nomination will go to Secretary Elkins without opposition.

PUT-IN-BAY.

Latest Gossip from the Pretty Little Island.

Put-in-Bay, July 18.—The second social complimentary hop by the management of the Hotel Victory was given Saturday evening and was more largely attended by the people of Put-in-Bay and surrounding islands than the previous one.

Guests and visitors were enthusiastic in their praise of the music furnished by Prof. Max Fackenhener and his band of 20 pieces. Max, who is considered the Gilmore of the west, is very fortunate in securing the services of the great clarinet soloist, W. R. Smith and the famous celoist, Mons. E. Sauter, of Chicago.

TO BURN THE BUILDING.

Bad Girls Cause Trouble at Indianapolis.

Three Attempts Made in One Night to Set Fire to a Reform School.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 18.—Last night three separate attempts were made by prisoners in the reform department of the Indiana female prison to burn that institution. The first came shortly before 8 o'clock by setting fire to a quantity of bedding stored in one of the large closets on the third floor.

Soon afterward fire was discovered in one of the bedrooms some distance away, and a third attempt followed in still another department.

The girls greeted the firemen with cries, "Let her burn!" and they ran about the grounds wildly insubordinate and determinedly bent upon mischief.

Some were thought to have escaped. After the danger was checked the firemen and police remained on guard for several hours and until the insubordination was under control.

At a late hour most of the girls gathered in the corridors and halls and declared they would not go to bed, and the officers were much disturbed over the outlook.

The latter reported that the girls were possessed of a mania to burn the institution, and they lived in constant dread of a recurrence of the disaster which partly destroyed the reformatory four months ago.

STOOD UP IN THE BOAT.

Fatal Accident to a Party of Pleasure Seekers.

Gloucester, N. J., July 18.—Mrs. Matthew Murray and Mary E. Gallagher were drowned in the Delaware river last evening. Matthew Murray, his wife, Miss Gallagher and Wm. Martin hired a skiff last evening to take a row on the river. The swell of a passing steamboat caused the skiff to rock and the women became frightened, and springing to their feet, lost their balance and fell overboard.

The men lost control of the boat in the swift tide and Murray sprang into the water and swam towards his wife, but before reaching her both she and Miss Gallagher sank for the last time. Murray was rescued. All the party were from Philadelphia.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Tiffin, July 18.—(Special)—A peculiar accident happened this morning to Andy Degan, an employe of Molter's restaurant. He had mopped out and was carrying the 170-pound cash register when his foot slipped, causing him to fall beneath the machine. His face was crushed and the mishap may be fatal.

PLACED IN JAIL.

St. Marys, O., July 18.—(Special.)—Stephen Greer, a brother of William Greer, who is confined in the Darke county jail charged with robbery, was arrested at Woodland, yesterday, and placed under bond of $300 for keeping stolen goods in his possession.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Wilmington, Del., July 18.—James McCloskey, a carriage painter, aged 48, shot and probably fatally wounded his sweetheart, Mabel Claringbould, 24 years of age, yesterday because the girl had treated him cooly. McCloskey then put four bullets into his own brain, from which wounds he will probably die

LAKE SHORE WRECK

Passenger Train Crashes Into a Dead Freight.

Engineer Topliff and His Fireman Badly Injured—Investigating the Disaster.

Cleveland, O., July 18.—The limited express, a fast east-bound passenger train on the Lake Shore railroad due in Cleveland at 2:55 o'clock in the morning, was wrecked at Vermillion, 30 miles west of the city, at about 2:10 o'clock Sunday morning.

The fast express dashed into a train of freight cars, part of which was on the siding and part upon the main track. The engineer and fireman were injured, and two freight cars, the locomotive, and one passenger coach were badly damaged.

The sleeping passengers were rudely awakened by the sudden stop made by the train, but beyond receiving an unpleasant shaking up the were not injured. The name of the engineer is Edward Topliff, and his home is in Toledo. He was badly bruised and several of his ribs were broken. The fireman's name is Eberhart. His injuries were not at all serious, and he was able to take the first west-bound train to his home in Elkhorn, O.

A special train, bearing Superintendent Caneff, physicians and wrecking machinery, was sent to Vermillion from this city, a wrecking train was also dispatched to the scene of the accident from Sandusky. The services of the physicians were not required except by the two injured trainmen. The wreckers had much to do, for the rolling stock that was damaged blocked the track and stopped traffic for five hours.

The limited train was composed of vestibule cars and was running at the rate of at least twenty miles an hour, when the collision occurred, the speed having been slackened on account of the numerous frogs and crossings in the Vermillion yards. There is some mystery as to how the freight cars came to be upon the main track, as no locomotive was attached to them. The officers of the road are investigating the cause of the collision. The damage to the rolling stock is estimated at $4,000.

THE CATTLE TROUBLE.

Texans Do Not Thrive When Locked in Jail.

Laramie, Wyo., July 18.—Two more of the Texans who are confined here with the cattlemen who invaded Johnson county, were taken sick yesterday.

The confinement, although not severe, seems to be telling on the entire party. While they were at Fort Russell they were practically under no restraint and did about as they pleased. Some who came to Laramie two weeks ago with rosy cheeks from playing ball and other sports at the fort, are now getting pale and worried. To-day Judge Blake's decision is expected as to where their cases will be tried.

DESTROYED AN ISLAND

Twelve Thousand People Have Perished.

Sangis, in the Malay Archipelgo, Swallowed by a Volcanic Eruption.

London, July 18.—The steamer Catterthun, which has arrived at Sydney, N. S. W., reports that when she touched at the island of Timor there was a rumor current that the island of Sangis, in the Malay Archipelago, had been destroyed by a volcanic eruption, and that the whole population, comprising 12,000 souls, had perished. The Catterthun steamed for miles through masses of volcanic debris.

WAS A CLOSE CALL.

Narrow Escape for Two Passenger Trains in the East.

New York, July 18.—An accident occurred at the intersection of the Pennsylvania and Atlantic City railroad tracks near Atlantic City yesterday morning, that bid fair to be very serious, but which fortunately turned out without fatalities.

The Atlantic City express and the morning excursion train on the Pennsylvania road, which are due at Atlantic City at the same time, came toward the junction at fair speed, both looking for the signal for a clear track.

By some means both trains got the same signal, that of a clear track, and both engineers pulled open for the station.

Just before reaching the crossing the signal man threw open a switch leading to a spur, built for such emergencies, and the Atlantic City road train dashed on to it at full speed.

A terrible collision was thus averted, but the Atlantic City road train engine ran off the end of the spur and turned over, the tender and smoker following it. The engineer and fireman jumped in time to save themselves.

None of the passengers were injured, although they all received a thorough shaking up. After the accident it was noticed that the signal was all right, but both engineer and fireman of the Atlantic City train declare that the danger signal was not displayed at the time of their approach.

WANTED TO LYNCH HIM.

A Black Fiend Has a Hard Time in South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., July 18.—Andrew Jeffords, a negro ex-convict, yesterday morning killed a white man named Wm. Adams. Adams was talking to a woman named Lizzie Waddell, of whom Jeffords appeared to be jealous.

After the killing Jeffords fled but was pursued and captured by an enraged mob, who after nearly killing him with kicks and clubs were about to complete their work by lynching their victim when interrupted by several leading citizens, who finally prevailed upon the mob to let the law take its course and the black brute was led away to jail, followed by a howling mob of angry people who constantly pounded him with rocks and other missiles at hand.

The Idlewild carried a large list of passengers to Detroit yesterday.

The Drum corps will give an excursion to-morrow night.

The Third Presbyterian Sunday school will picnic at Presque Isle Wednesday.

Merengo Park was well patronized yesterday.

It would be strange if some of these Sunday excursion boats were hauled up for overcrowding before the season is over. They are carrying more passengers than is allowable by two or three hundred. A fine of $50 a passenger is imposed for this offence, which would be liable to take off the profits of a season materially if carried out.

SITUATION IN ENGLAND

Salisbury to be Asked to Quit at Once,

So That Gladstone Would be Forced to Take a Stand

On the Home Rule Question and Unfold His Plans to the House of Commons.

London, July 18.—All the cabinet ministers have been summoned to London for Thursday next. Mr. Balfour, arriving in town yesterday, proceeded to the Hatfield house to see Lord Salisbury. The latter went to Windsor to meet the Duke of Devonshire, who has been staying at the castle for some time. Here he had a conference with her majesty, and returned to London, accompanied by the Duke of Devonshire under excitement. It is expected that some developments of an unwonted character are impending.

The political clubs generally are crowded. A rumor is rife that the Carlton club men state that a section of the cabinet want Lord Salisbury to resign forthwith, in order to force Mr. Gladstone to meet the house of commons with a full disclosure of his home rule and general policy, and to precipitate the crisis.

The liberals are prepared to take office immediately, or await the defeat of the government on the amendment to the address. No tactics that the present government can adopt will force the hand of Mr. Gladstone. If Lord Salisbury does not await a formal vote of expulsion, the liberal government policy, as outlined in the queen's speech, can be so couched as to reveal nothing that the conservatives do not already know. If the conservatives rely upon forcing Mr. Gladstone to declare himself fully on the debate to the amendment, that depends upon his pleasure.

The course that Mr. Gladstone adopts will not in the slightest be influenced by the views of the opposition; but rather directed to baffle them.

A conference of Gladstone and his colleagues is expected to take place on Thursday. The difficulties of working the house with a majority dependent upon the Irish members are duly appreciated at the liberal headquarters. Amongst the troubles menacing the new government is the habit the Irish members have of irregular attendance. Many of them have had business affairs in Ireland to look after heitherto, and only appeared in the house when they were summoned there by the exigency of Irish affairs. The special business being finished, they vanished again. If this practice is continued under the new government, the absence of some 40 Irish members will render the government liable to defeat at any moment. Parnell kept his men together, when the party purse was full, by personal payment at regular intervals, enabling them to disregard the claims of private affairs. The liberals will have recourse to subsidizing the McCarthyites; but this would place the party under obligations which is almost impossible to accept. If the American subscriptions continue during the final crisis, the home rule party will be wonderfully strengthened. All sides recognized the fact that the present elections, costing as they have about £2,500,000, and only the prelude to a more decisive electoral campaign, when more money must be expected, and the local organization everywhere must be maintained in full vigor. The resources of the unionists are inexhaustible as compared with those of the liberals, though since last reverting to the financial position of the party, the Associated Press correspondent has learned that assurances have been obtained by the liberal executive that wealthy Gladstonians are ready to respond to demands.

Regarding the coming crisis in parliament, a month must elapse before the actual business of the house begins. The swearing in of members takes a fortnight; then the election of the speaker and the chairmen of committees proceeds, involving possibly a debate; and next comes the discussion of the amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne. If this is followed by a change of government, Mr. Gladstone may take a fortnight to form a ministry, a number of members of which may require re-election. The liberals thus calculate that it will be October before the new government can be called upon to present to parliament its program. The import of this estimate of progress is, that it is probable that Mr. Gladstone will not begin the work of legislation in the winter session; but will postpone it until next spring.

A section of the conservatives cherish the delusion that Lord Salisbury, still holding a majority of the British votes, can refuse to resign until another appeal has been made to the country. Some tory papers seek to deny that such a course would be unconstitutional, though the bulk of them admit that the government must vacate office on the first adverse vote.

An analysis of the latest returns shows the value of the British vote on which the conservatives now rely as the bulwark for the rejection of home rule. The number of members thus far retained is 652. This leaves only 18 results yet undeclared. England has sent 234 conservatives, 193 liberals (including members of the labor party), 30 unionists and one McCarthyite (Tom O'Connor). Scotland sends 11 conservatives, 50 liberals and 10 unionists. Wales sends 2 conservatives and 26 liberals, and Ireland 17 conservatives, 5 unionists, 64 McCarthyites and 9 Parnellites. The opposition combined thus aggregates 342, and the unionists 310. Of the 18 seats yet unreturned, seven Irish and six British in the late parliament were held by the opposition and five by the unionists. As changes are unlikely the new parliament will consist of 355 Gladstonians and 315 unionists. The total number of unionists returned by Great Britain is 292, and the total Gladstonians 275, including tomorrow's result in the remaining 18 districts. When Great Britain shows a clear majority for home rule, says the unionist press, it will come. It can never be carried by Irish votes, especially when these votes are 20 in excess of their fair proportion, according to the relative population of the countries.

T. P. O'CONNOR.

An Irishman Writes on the Prospects of Home Rule.

London, July 18.—Mr. T. P. O'Connor in his paper, the Sunday Sun, says:

"The elections are practically over. The opposition have a majority not so large as some expected, but still a substantial majority—which in the days of Palmerston would have been regarded as gigantic.

"The question now is whether Mr. Gladstone can carry his measures, and hold out long enough. Our own impression is that he can; and ought. He is steadily and immutably bound to hold two things. First, not to allow himself to be forced on the country until he has reformed the whole system of registration; second, not to allow his hand to be forced in the house of lords.

"The differences of opinion of different sections of the liberal and Irish parties in regard to the details of home rule scheme can be imagined, but there is none on the question of one man, one vote, which the Gladstone should carry. Even some unionists would find it difficult to oppose the proposal, although most of the unionists are really rank conservatives and have lost what little trace of liberalism they ever had and there is more real sympathy for the progress of democratic demands felt by many tories than by some unionists.

"Yet the differences of temperaments and interests would make it possible that we would not find a solid unionist party arrayed against us on liberal proposals outside of home rule.

The idea prevails in some quarters that Mr. Gladstone will go before the country after one defeat of the home rule scheme by the house of lords; our own impression is that he will send his home rule bill at least three times to the house of lords. The supreme interest of the liberal party during the remaining years of the struggle is to mature public opinion and to arouse the passions of the people against the house of lords.

"There is no cry to which the masses would respond so promptly or so fiercely as 'Down with the house of lords.' The unionist gobemouches are already busy about Mr. Gladstone's difficulty in getting the nationalists to hang up the question of home rule until he has dealt with the one man, one vote issue. This bill should be confined to the fewest clauses and words possible.

"No such difficulty will arise. The two bills then could run side by side, each taking alternate rights; and in the same way the home rule bill could accompany every other government measure. The tories may force us to another appeal to the country before the question or home rule is settled. If we then have one man vote we can sweep the counties.

"The tory threats that the house of lords will not pass the one man, one vote measure is of no more importance than the bugbear of civil war. In Ulster, both are what is called in an American campaign lying. As to hanging up the question of home rule. Mr. Gladstone thinks, speaks, acts, lives; therefore he will not allow it to be postponed for a single second."

NEAR THE SAD LAKE WAVES,

In the Dream Hours of Midnight,

The Remains of M. A. Collins, President of a Suicide Club, Were Reduced to Ashes.

Chicago, July 18.—A strange and weirdly dramatic scene was enacted Saturday night on the south shore of Lake Michigan. At the base of a great mound of glistening white sand near the water's edge there was lighted a funeral pyre and all that was mortal of Morris Allen Collins, president of the Dallas, Tex., Suicide club, was by his own written request reduced to ashes.

The Whitechapel club, of this city, had charge of the strange ceremony. The torch was applied to the pile of pitched-soaked wood at about 10:50 o'clock, and during the five hours that the body burned impressive ceremonies were performed, consisting of music, recitations, and addresses.

Collins committed suicide July 8 by shooting himself through the head in his room on West Madison street. He was 40 years old, the son of Rev. Samuel Collins, a Methodist minister who settled in Texas early in the forties. Left an orphan early in life, Collins seems to have had a constant struggle with poverty.

He came to Chicago practically penniless in 1886, and afterward became a writer for the Labor Enquirer, owned by Joseph R. Buchanan. On the register of the Whitechapel club this signature appears: "M. A. Collins, president Suicide Club, Dallas, Tex."

Collins was seriously injured in October, 1890, by being knocked down by an engine on the Northwestern road, and the injury probably affected his mind. It was followed by a mild epileptic attack, which afterward recurred with increasing intensity and frequency until he became despondent and finally ended his life. It is said that he made two unsuccessful attempts to accomplish his purpose with morphine before he at last succeeded with a pistol.

He left a letter to his friend, Honore Joseph Jackson, directing that his body be turned over to the Whitechapel club for incineration. The scene of the cremation was by far the most desolate spot that could be found in the vicinity of Chicago. The building of the funeral pyre occupied the greater portion of the day. When completed it stood 18 feet long, 8 feet wide, and 2 feet high. In addition to the members of the Whitechapel a considerable number of their friends from the city were present at the ceremonies, besides half a hundred country people attracted by curiosity.

The body of Collins, draped in white robe, was taken from its casket and placed on top of the pile. The Whitechapelers lifted their torches and marched three times around the piles, uttering a dirge. The fire was started. The club chaplain, W. C. Thompson, delivered a characteristic address, which was followed by other addresses by members.

Mournfully the harp and zither played the sad notes of Ernst's "Elegy," and a funeral sermon was delivered by Dwight Baldwin. At last came the ceremony of gathering the ashes. With trowels made and plated for the occasion the few charred remains of the body were reverently placed in the temporary urn. Bearing this the company returned to the city long after sunrise yesterday morning.

NEWS FROM THE ORIENT.

Pestilence and Floods in the East.

Anti-Christian Literature Scattered Broadcast Through the Land.

San Francisco, July 18.—The steamship City of Peking arrived here yesterday, bringing China advices to June 23, and Japanese to July 2.

The Japanese ministry is still in an unsettled state, the vacancies not having been filled. Mr. Frazer, her Brittanic Majesty's minister, left for home on the 27th inst. One hundred and fifty-seven typhoid fever and 78 small pox patients are in the hospital at Tokio.

Accounts of terrible inundations come Fukushima prefecture. Incessant rain from the 25th to the 28th of May has resulted in the flooding of 10 districts. Thirty-four people were killed and many wounded; over 1,000 houses were inundated, 43 houses destroyed and many damaged. Nearly seven hundred bridges were swept away; 800 acres of rice fields inundated and 4,000 acres are under water.

From Nanking the news comes that reports of the capture of Chinese by foreign missionaries, the gouging out of eyes, etc., are prevalent and are really believed by all classes. There is no open opposition to the foreign missionaries, but the officials place every obstruction in their way, and, it is suspected, secretly aid in the spreading of vile anti-Christian literature, which is mainly responsible for all the trouble.

The editor of the Japan Gazette, who has examined some of these pamphlets, says of them: "If the government continues to permit their circulation these human tracts will be a blot upon the celestial empire which ages will not efface."

At Shun-King and Ichang some mysterious plague is carrying off thousands of people. Gen. Lo Hung who has charge of the district, is out daily with his troops firing volleys of blank cartridges to drive off the demons of the air who are supposed to bring pestilence.

A few months ago the schooner Undine, of 180 tons, owned by Crawford & Co., of this city, sailed from this port for the south sea islands in command of Capt. Castella. The vessel's crew consisted of the captain and eight men. At Honolulu a man who said he was the mates's brother joined the vessel and about three days out from Honolulu one of the brothers shot the captain and supercargo. The crew was then plied with poisoned liquor and made way with, except the steward, who was given a bribe of $1,000.

At one of the islands a new crew of natives was shipped and the schooner proceeded to Ascension island. There the steward revealed the crime to the authorities, who arrested the murderers and sent them to Manilla.

RELIEF FOR ST. JOHN.

Chicago, July 18.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the St. Johns Relief Fund association the report of the committee appointed to solicit funds from the board of trade and banks was read. Nearly $6,000 have been secured in the two days the committee have been at work. Four thousand dollars was given by the board of trade. Nine banks visited gave $1,000.

Cholera Infantum Prevalent.

There are many cases of cholera infantum in town," said a prominent physician, yesterday, "and mothers should be very watchful of their children's health. It is far better to prevent this disease than to attempt its cure; and mothers should know that nothing has kept so many babies well as lactated food. It has actually saved the child's life in many cases of this disease that I have attended this year."

IN A SPORTING WAY

Close of the Red Ribbon Meeting.

Not as Successful as it Might Have Been.

Toledo and Columbus to Play Ball in This City—General Gossip.

Saturday afternoon closed the red ribbon meeting, after a fairly successful season. There was a fair attendance, not, however, what it should have been, considering the excellent program arranged. The weather each day, with one exception, was all that could be desired, and the track was in good condition for horse and rider. The managers put forth every effort to have the meeting a success, and, while their anticipations were not fully realized, yet they are content, but expect better results at the fall meeting.

The "bookies" were not as fortunate as usual.

The races Saturday were as follows:

Trotting—2:40 Class—Purse $500.

Bell Moore	1	2	4	3	1	1
Harry Almont	2	1	1	2	2	2
Cooke	7	4	2	1	3	3
Miss Hastings	3	3	6	5	5	dr
Star Line	4	5	3	4	4	dr
Perline	6	6	5	6	6	dr
Chieftain Laddie			5	7	7	dr

Time—2:38, 2:35, 2:36 1-2, 2:36 1-4, 2:39 1-2, 2:34 1-2.

Bell Moore proved to be a favorite, although Harry Almont was not far behind and made her work for first place. With the exception of Cooke, the others retired from the race.

Trotting—2:23 Class—Purse $500.

Kitty Bayard	1	1	1
Earlmont	2	3	2
Grace W.	3	2	3

Time—2:25 1-2, 2:28, 2:26 3-4.

In this race Kitty Bayard won handily.

Running, Mile Dash. Purse $100.

Hansa	1
Uncle Kit	2

Time, 1:49 1-2.

Hansa had no difficulty in running away from Uncle Kit and won easily.

The running races were generally more popular than either the trotting or pacing, although considerable excitement was connected with each event.

Notes.

No accident occurred Saturday.

The banks were well represented Saturday.

Wauseon, Napoleon and Monroe were well represented at the races.

The horsemen all went home feeling good, and promise to come back next fall.

A good many Toledo people will attend the blue ribbon races at Detroit next week.

Many words of praise were spoken for Jeff Wheeler as starting judge. He will probably be secured for next fall's races.

Washington, July 18.—The thirteenth annual meeting of the League of American Wheelmen began to-day and will continue through Tuesday and Wednesday. The meet bids fair to surpass all its predecessors. At least 3,000 L. A. W. members are expected to attend and all the crack riders will be on hand to endeavor to retain possession of trophies already won, and to win new laurels, thus insuring interesting and exciting contests. The entries for the various events are from parties as far east as Portland, Me.; as far south as Huston, Tex., and from points in Michigan and Kansas. The racing contests will take place on Analostan island, opposite Georgetown, where the Columbia Athletic club does its outdoor sports. The races will be as follows:

Tuesday—One mile safety, novice; open.

Quarter mile ordinary, L. A. W. championship.

Half mile safety, open.

One mile ordinary, L. A. W. championship.

Quarter mile safety, open.

Half mile safety, L. A. W. championship.

One mile safety, handicap, open.

Two mile safety, L. A. W. championship.

One mile safety, open.

One mile safety, District of Columbia championship.

Wednesday—One mile safety three-minute class, open.

Half mile ordinary, L. A. W. championship.

Two mile, safety, handicap, open.

Quarter mile, safety, L. A. W. championship.

One mile safety (team), open.

One mile safety, L. A. W. championship.

One mile ordinary, open.

One mile tandem, L. A. W. championship.

One mile ordinary, District of Columbia championship.

The prizes for the L. A. W. championship will be gold, silver and bronze medals, struck from league dies of new and elegant design. The races will be governed by the L. A. W. racing rules, and will be strictly confined to amateurs.

The cyclists began arriving in the city yesterday by hundreds, and the Ebbitt house, where the headquarters of the league are established, presented a lively scene. During the day the lobby of the hotel was crowded by a constantly moving throng of visitors, with a good sprinkling of local men doing all that was necessary to make the strangers feel at home.

KILLED BY A SNAKE.

St. Marys, O., July 18.—(Special.)—William Simonson, a farmer living near St. Henry, Mercer county, had a desperate fatal combat with a huge rattlesnake yesterday afternoon. He was out in a field making hay when the reptile attacked him and before assistance arrived the serpent had already done its deadly work. Simonson was carried to a neighboring farmhouse and a doctor summoned, but in spite of medical aid his wound proved fatal.

THE WORK OF CONGRESS.

It is Being Rapidly Brought to Close.

Both Houses in Fairly Good Shape.

Senator Washburn Still Very Anxious About the Anti-Option Bill.

Washington, July 18.—Congress is rapidly approaching the end of the session, and in the opinion of the house leaders this week will probably witness the closing scenes. On the other hand, however,, the opinion prevails among the minority that adjournment will not be reached before the first of August.

The proceedings in the house this week will be confined largely to the consideration of appropriation bills. To-day is suspension day, and several members are expecting a glance of recognition from the speaker to enable them to pass special measures.

The bill to transfer the revenue marine service from the treasury to the navy department is one of the measures slated for consideration. On Tuesday at 12 o'clock a vote will be taken on the world's fair proposition in the sundry civil bill, and it is believed a final vote on the bill itself will also occur on that day.

The report on the investigation of the pension office will be called up Tuesday by Mr. Enloe, who hopes to have a cloture rule reported by the committee on rules in order to force a vote on the question of adopting the majority's recommendation that Commissioner Raum be dismissed.

The deficiency and the fortification appropriation bills are expected to receive attention during the latter part of the week.

Senator Washburn, of Minnesota, remains firm in his belief that there is a set purpose on the part of the leaders in the senate to force an adjournment just as soon as the last appropriation bill has been disposed of in order to prevent action by the senate on the anti-option bill, in which he takes so much interest, which has passed the house and only needs concurrence by the senate to send it to the president.

He has shown by two test votes that there is a working majority of at least five in the senate in favor of the enactment of some legislation on this subject, and he thinks he can get the bill through without material amendment. If he can only call it up and make it unfinished business. His chief difficulty lies in the fact that so soon as he starts with the bill an appropriation bill is thrust in the road, and he finds himself facing no thoroughfare. The Minnesota senator believes the announced intention of Mr. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, to make a set speech on the "tariff for revenue" resolutions of Mr. Hale some time this week, to be part of the same policy of delay, thought the announcement that Mr. Aldrich would make such a speech was made by Mr. Hale when he called up the resolutions on the 28th of June, before the anti-option bill came to the front. Whether the Minnesota senator's suspicions were well founded or not, it is apparent that the anti-option bill is the key to the situation, so far as early adjournment is concerned. If that bill can be postponed until December an adjournment between the 1st and 5th of August is possible, and even probable. If it gets before the senate as the continuing order, with all appropriation bills out of the way, there is no telling how long the session may last. Senators who have voted with Mr. Washburn to take up the bill are by no means satisfied with it in its present form. They will propose, and will probably carry amendments which will send it back for consideration by the house, and an almost interminable struggle may thus be brought about.

There is really nothing else likely to delay congress. The sundry civil bill, even with the world's fair attached, can probably be disposed of in conference in ten or twelve working days, and the pending fortifications and deficiency bills are likely to occupy still less time. The notice paper of the senate is full, but brutem fulmen might be written over nearly every suggested topic. Not one of them is likely to be taken up except for an hour or two's talk. No legislation is contemplated on any one of them for this session at least.

Mr. Butler's proposition to transfer the revenue marine from the treasury department to the navy is the only outside bill of a national character upon which there seems to be a determined intention to push a vote. That has a majority of senators in its favor, but will encounter a strong talking opposition on the floor, being bitterly antagonized by such leaders as Sherman on the republican, and Cockrell on the democratic side, and having the support of the present secretary of the navy and the opposition of the present secretary of the treasury.

WAS WITH CUSTER.

Henry Drago, a Veteran With a Great Record,

Buried in St. Francis de Sales Cemetery Saturday—Twenty-Three Years in the Army.

There was buried at St. Francis de Sales cemetery on Saturday a veteran of several wars, and a hero whose martial record would fill volumes.

Henry Drago, whose death occurred Thursday, was born in Canada 51 years ago. He came to Toledo in 1847, and when the war broke out he was first among the brave young fellow who rallied to Jim Steedman's call. He served the three months under Steedman, was wounded at Fortress Monroe, and was sent home, supposed to be as good as dead. He didn't die, but lived to re-enlist under that other gallant and big-hearted old warrior, Col. Paul Edwards, and fought under him throughout the war. He received an honorable discharge, and at once re-enlisted under Gen. Custer in the United States cavalry, and was one of Custer's trusted lieutenants.

Drago was at the Custer massacre, but escaped by being detailed under Reno on that mournful and memorable occasion.

It will be remembered that the Reno detail, in recrossing the Little Big Horn, were obliged to fight for their lives. Henry Drago was in the heart of that fight, and the wounds he received on that occasion were the ultimate cause of his death.

The deceased was 23 years in the service of Uncle Sam, and during the last years of his life has been an invalid.

Like all brave men he was, modest in the extreme and as tender-hearted as a woman. In many ways he was as simple as a child, and it was only among near friends that he spoke of the adventures he had participated in and the life he had seen.

It is probable that no sky-scraping monument will ever tower above that new-made grave in the little Catholic cemetery, but it can be marked down that in that great record where the names of the good and brave and true only are written, not the least bright and illustrious will be that of Henry Drago.

FULL OF ELECTRICITY.

Peculiar Phenomenon Observed in Chicago.

Chicago, July 18.—A curious electric phenomenon was observed in this city Saturday between the hours of 10 in the morning and 3 in the afternoon. While the sky was cloudless and the sun shining brightly, a tremendous current of electricity charged the air to such an extent that it was impossible for the telegraph companies to use the longer circuits on their wires while it lasted. The current gradually increased in intensity until noon, when it was at its height. It was absolutely impossible to get the use of the wires at Pittsburg, New York, Omaha and St. Louis; but the shorter circuits, within a radius of 200 miles, were apparently unaffected.

BARN BURNERS

They Are Making Life Miserable at Bryan.

The People Becoming Alarmed at the Increased Number of Fires—General News.

Bryan, O., July 18.—(Special)—There exists at present in this peaceable village a gang of persons who find great pleasure in setting fire to barns. Friday night two barns were burned, and in one a team of horses perished. Since March 1 no less than a dozen barns have been set on fire. The people here are becoming indignant and are waiting to find the parties who are the cause of all this work.

There seems to be many attempts at breaking in houses, and it is thought these same parties have a hand in both jobs. Last week two houses were visited, but not entrances were made.

Bryan is having north Main street, leading from the square to the L. S. & M. S. railway graveled. It is a much needed improvement.

Work on the "Regulation" mile track for the new fair grounds is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

Saturday the gents' furnishing establishment of Geo. W. Hopkins was closed by order of a few creditors. It is hoped that matters will be settled in a few days and that business will be resumed.

The Bryan Library will give an entertainment in the opera house next Friday night. Among the many features of the evening will be a drill by 50 children, representing crickets, grasshoppers, butterflies, frogs, fairies, etc. A grand time is expected.

GIGANTIC LANDSLIDE.

Three Hundred Feet of Earth Making Its Way Down a Mountain.

Golden, Col., July 18.—A mass of earth, 300 feet wide, is sliding slowly down the side of Table mountain, east of this place, carrying with it an eight-room house, orchard and garden, and the tracks of the Colorado Central railroad. The slide is caused by water from the Church irrigating ditch penetrating the earth below. The ditches will doubtless go, leaving several thousand acres of farm and garden lands without means of irrigation. Efforts are being made to save the railroad: but it will doubtless go into Clear creek. The loss will be heavy, especially to farmers.

WILL TAKE AN OUTING.

New London, Con., July 18.—W. B. Frick, of Homestead, Pa., son of the manager of the Carnegie steel works, passed through this city Saturday night on his way to Fisher's island, where his parents have a handsome cottage. Young Frick said that his father would join the family within a few days and remain for a considerable time.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

To Mrs. Theodore Schmidt in a Runaway.

Last evening Mrs. Theodore Schmidt, wife of the Second ward councilman, while out riding with baby and servant, the horse became frightened and ran away. At the corner of Ontario and Chestnut streets Mrs. Schmidt was thrown from the buggy, and seriously, but it is believed not dangerously, injured. She was reported better this morning.

DAMAGED OFF CLEVELAND.

The Schooner Massasoit Loses a Mast.

Yesterday when the steamer Panther let go of her consort, the Massasoit, off Cleveland, it was blowing a gale. The schooner got into the trough of the sea and was badly shaken up before making port. She lost one mast, but was otherwise little damaged.

MRS. TANNEYHILL DEAD.

The End Came at Bryan This Morning.

Rev. Dr. Fish, of this city, received a telegram this morning announcing the death of the aged mother of Rev. C. W. Tanneyhill, secretary of the Central Ohio M. E. conference, which occurred at Bryan Ohio. The funeral will be held on Wednesday, and in fulfillment of a promise made long since, Dr. Fish will attend and preach the sermon. The deceased leaves a husband and two sons to mourn her loss, besides a large circle of acquaintances.

A BRUTE

Who Cruelly Beat and Stabbed His Little Son.

Complaint was made at the humane office this morning that Conrad Meyers, who lives on Paige street, had terribly beaten his little son, and, not content with that, stabbed him in the arm with a pair of scissors. The boy, who is employed by Lasalle & Koch, was brought to the humane office and an ugly wound found on his arm. The case will probably be investigated this afternoon, and justice dealt out to the inhuman father.

THE GOOD TEMPLARS.

New Lodge To Be Formed—The Air Line Branch.

On Friday evening, July 29, a lodge of Good Templars will be organized at Emery hall, 331 Broadway. The application is in the hands of Dr. C. S. Emery, and it is expected to start out with from fifty to seventy charter members. So far the parties are persons of sterling worth in the Fifth ward, and they propose to have the best lodge in the district.

Air Line lodge, No. 57, I. O. G. T., have an important meeting Wednesday, July 20. Several new members are expected, and action will be taken in regard to a public installation August 3.

SPECIAL TEMPERANCE

Service Held by the C. E. Society of the First Presbyterian Church.

The Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church held a special temperance service in the church last evening led by Miss Lily Lang. Extracts were read from Lady Henry Somerset's temperance address after her return to England. Questions and answers on the effect of alcohol on the nervous system were very entertaining and instructive. The musical program was good. The feature of the evening was the recitation by Miss Genevieve Carpenter on "College Oil Cans."

THE GOSPEL TENT

Crowded at Last Night's Services, with Standing Room at a Premium.

The summer work of the Eleventh street Church of Christ is proving to be a wonderful success, and could be carried on in all large cities every summer with profit. Thousands hear the gospel that would not attend churches. Evangelist Updike preached two powerful discourses yesterday to large and appreciative audiences, and quite a large number responded to the gospel invitation.

The "Red, White and Blue" was the subject last evening. Every available seat in the large tent was early occupied and standing room was soon in demand, the great throng reaching to the sidewalk. Prof. Hawes sang several touching solos.

Meetings every night this week. On next Sunday afternoon Mr. Updike will have a meeting for men only, and deliver his great lecture, "Samson's Riddle." Admission will be by ticket, to be had at the tabernacle.

NEW FISHING CLUB.

Another Organization to Enjoy the Piscatorial Delights.

A fine club house has been erected on the banks of Ten Mile creek, on Mr. Angel's farm, by the Buckeye Fishing club, which is officered as follows: Andy Popp, president; Ed Zumbrum, secretary and Richard Cummerow treasurer.

The club had its opening yesterday and everything was done to make it pleasant for those who had the honor to be present.

Mr. Ed Zumbrum made a very appropriate speech, after which all partook of a bountiful spread. Ed Zumbrum has the honor of being the boss fisher on the creek.

MR. FRANK J. KING

Lying in a Precarious State, Suffering From Pneumonia.

Frank J. King, one of Toledo's oldest and most respected citizens, is lying at the point of death at the family residence.

At 10 o'clock the attending physicians, Drs. Goodwin and Barlow, reported that pneumonia had set in, with chances much against the sufferer. At 2 o'clock he was resting some easier, but there was very little change in his condition. The physicians arranged a consultation for 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. King has been indisposed for several months, but only confined to his bed about two weeks.

PRAYER SERVICE

At the Y. W. C. A. Rooms Yesterday Afternoon.

The prayer meeting at the rooms of the Young Woman's Christian association yesterday afternoon, were as usual, well attended, and the exercises interesting. Miss Voss was the leader, and she gave an interesting talk on the subject, "The Lord's Jewels," many of the members present taking part with scripture reading and prayer. The noon rest at these rooms continues to increase in popularity, and the lunches prepared by Mrs. Admas are delicious. They are prepared for the young working women of Toledo, and are heartily appreciated.

COL. MANYPENNY.

He Was for Years Associated in Business With Toledoans

The death of Hon. Geo. W. Manypenny, at his home near Bowie, Md., is reported in to-day's dispatches.

At one time Mr. Manypenny was connected with several of Toledo's most prominent citizens in different enterprises. The news of Mr. Manypenny's death was imparted to Hon. A. L. Backus this morning, who was greatly surprised at the tidings. Speaking of the deceased Mr. Backus said:

"I have known Mr. Manypenny for 55 years intimately, and I know that he lived as pure a life morally as man could. I was associated with him in business for years and I always found him honest and upright in all of our dealings. He was a man of great business capabilities, and was a brilliant conversationalist. Geo. W. Davis, Samuel W. Young, Mr. Manypenny and myself at one time leased and operated over 800 miles of Ohio's canals for an unbroken term of 20 years."

Chicago.

Chicago, July 18.—Grain freights opened very dull to-day. An advance in corn prices stopped the movement of that grain, and there was not much demand for wheat and oats. The brisk movement to Georgian bay came to a sudden end. Shippers secured no decline in rates, however.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, July 18.—Coal freight opened with a rush this morning. Rates are strong. Charters—Madden, Harrison, Webb, Rawson, to Milwaukee, 60c; Quito, Newell, Eddy, Chas. Eddy, to Chicago, 60c; London, Gilbert, to Duluth, 35c; Pawnee, Edwards, Young, to Green Bay, 60c; Sweetheart, Goshawk, sunshine, to Manitowac, 60c; McDougal, to Saginaw, 40c; Orton, to Menominee, 60c.

Sand Beach.

Sand Beach, July 18.—Coal is being rapidly lightered off the schooner Aloha, which went ashore in last Friday's gale. One pump lowers the water which shows that the damages are not severe.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 18.—Brokers are still inclined to hold Escanaba vessels up to the time of loading, on account of the demand exceeding the supply at 70 cents. Charters to-day were for spot vessels, two of them being ready to load this afternoon. The demand for boats from the head of Lake Superior is also strong at $1.15.

Duluth, July 18.—Grain rates have advanced to a nominal figure of 3 1-4c on wheat to Buffalo. In store to-day, 3,-403.013 bushels; decrease from last week, 138.320 bushels.

Ludington, Mich., July 18.—The tugs Stevens and Roy succeeded during last night in pulling the schooner Mars off the beach and got her into the harbor. Besides leaking a little the Mars is uninjured.

Through the Straits.

Mackinaw, July 18.—Down—Felicitous, 9:30 last night; Lehigh, 12:20 a. m.; Rugee, 2:20; Tom Adams, 2:50; Schlesinger, 3:15; Norman, 4:50; Pasadena and consort, 5:40; Sachem, 6; Valiyuga and consort, 7; Butteroni, City of Paris, 9; Tempest and consorts, 11.

Up—Business, Chandler, 9:30 last night; Curtis and consorts, 12; Langdon, 2:50; Chicago, 4:30; New York, Lehigh, Maggie, Duncan and consorts, 5:40; Choctaw, 6:40; Waukesha, Stanton, 7; Grecian, 9:40. Wind southwest, strong, clear.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS.

The steamers to Monroe yesterday had all they could carry. Fishing was fair.

The paving on Lawrence avenue is progressing finely and is nearly completed.

Wednesday the Sunday school of the Third Presbyterian church will picnic at Presque Isle.

The Home Aid association will meet at Odd Fellows' temple to-morrow (Tuesday) evening.

The steamer Burt did a big business yesterday, and Marengo park was a lively place all day.

The Sunday school of the Fifth Presbyterian church will give a picnic at Riverside park next Wednesday.

Rev. Dr. Fish lectures at Weston, O., to-morrow night, subject, "Hiding Places." His hearers are promised a good lecture.

Five horses created an excitement on Water street this morning by attempting to run away. Three were going one way and two the other, but fortunately they were captured before any harm was done.

The Sunday school at the First Presbyterian church will picnic at the Toledo exposition grounds on Wednesday next. Dinner will be served in the large pavilion, and there will be base ball, foot ball, tennis, and other sport.

A young men's meeting is to be held in the junior department rooms of the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock this evening, at which time the topic of "Great Love, Great Forgiveness," will be considered. Mr. Frank Consaul will conduct. All young men are welcome to spend an hour in singing and enjoying themselves.

The Westminster Presbyterian church owns a one-third interest in a lot on the northwest corner of Cherry and Superior streets which is 100 feet wide and 120 feet long. A proposition for the purchase of the property has been made, and a meeting of the congregation has been called for this evening to discuss the matter.

An Estimate of Bismarck.

A sharp review of Bismarck and his public career is published in a recent number of the London Contemporary Review. It is written by Poultney Bigelow, who, to be sure, is a friend of the present emperor, but who voices his averments with all confidence and in a convincing manner, relying upon future divulgements to make the character and career of the man understood. The paper by Mr. Bigelow was published in reply to one which appeared in the Review, extolling Bismarck and calling the emperor a "coxcomb" and a "cad." In the same article was also a caricature of Minister Phelps, who was spoken of as "the unsightly Yankee," for no other understandable reason than that he (Phelps) "admires the emperor and is friendly with him."

Mr. Bigelow reviews the growth of socialism under Bismarck, and says the chancellor aided it, hostile as he was to its principles, to divide the liberal party and set one faction against the other. The legislation of 1878, which gave the police permission to break into any house at any time, seize anything and arrest any person. Emperor William hastened to annul, which made the breach that has widened to a gulf. It is charged that when the late chancellor was in power he controlled most of the newspapers in the country and his agents furnished material for publication. He had expended an appropriation of 200,000 marks annually, in his own "secret service." Every newspaper correspondent in Berlin was expected to make a demi-god of Bismarck if he wished to succeed. He dictated the war scares for political ends of his own. He hated England but he could not win Russia's friendship by it. He intensified the animosity between Germany and France, he abandoned the struggle with Rome in disgrace, his protection measures have proven profitless and disappointing, and his only grievance with the young emperor was that he would no longer permit Bismarckian rule, satisfied that personal ambition overshadowed all love of country and of people. Mr. Bigelow says:

"The documents and secret instructions of departments are not accessible now, and probably will not be for at least fifty years." But these would show "to what small proportion the mighty iron chancellor has shrunk, relieved of the office which gave him such monstrous padding."

But the iron will is not broken and Bismarck does not purpose to be written of as one in past history. He is determined, for good or for ill, to humiliate the present ruler and regain his old hold on the government in any measure possible. There comes a time when the most successful and famous men should retire from leadership, for the sake of their own fame, and possibly Bismarck should realize that this time has come for him.

The Meaning of the Warfare.

The country is coming to understand that the lock-out at Homestead is no "common Hungarian riot." The laborers who are contending for justice from their employers and who have been denied arbitration or even conference, are a class of skilled workmen whose places can scarcely be filled in the United States. Indeed, it is tacitly acknowledged that the mills will be obliged to lie idle until skilled men from the old world factories can be brought over. The place of a bank president, or railroad president, or of Manager Frick himself can be more easily filled than that of the finest workmen in finished steel in the Homestead mills. These men understand fully that this steel-billet regulation of wages and the difficulty proceeding therefrom, has not precipitated the conflict. Apprehension is felt that organized labor is getting strong enough to demand its rights, and that it has in it as much "sacredness" as property rights, especially when it is the creator and producer of the property aforesaid for an infinitely small fraction of the profits that accrue. Hence the war upon it by the employer who believes in the prince and peasant doctrine, as working for the highest good of humanity.

A Speech by Mr. Hurd.

On Friday evening, at a place to be hereafter announced, Hon. Frank H. Hurd will address the people of Toledo on the subject of "Protection and Wages." Mr. Hurd is the foremost tariff reformer in Ohio and is a pioneer in the work of tariff education. His address should be heard by every wage earner in Toledo. There will be rugged truths eloquently stated for the people to take home for individual application. While this will be a democratic meeting, and the first of the campaign all citizens are invited and urged to attend. Mr. Hurd is a scholar and a thinker, a popular as well as a forceful speaker, and his addresses are always models of good English, clear diction, convincing argument and sterling democracy.

A German paper accuses New York importers of threats to boycott certain commercial houses in that country if they send exhibits to the Chicago exposition. The article, as it is translated from the Frankfurter Zeitung, makes positive accusation of this, and concludes:

The purpose of such manipulations is clear. The New York importers simply fear to lose out of their hands the control of the American business if Chicago firms shall be enabled by the display of the necessary sample material in large quantities, to form direct and independent relations with foreign shippers whose business New York has hitherto exclusively controlled. Equally clear and evident are the results which will follow as well as for the New York importers as for the German manufacturers, who allow themselves to be frightened from sending their exhibits to the exposition. The German manufacturers, will be by far the most seriously injured.

The country has known that New York had a very sore head over the Chicago fair, but it was hardly prepared for so serious accusation as this.

Republicans cannot understand how the democracy can denounce the Pinkertons after being told that some of them are democrats. Their hide-bound partisanship will not permit them to understand how a man on "our side" in politics can be scored if he enter into unholy combinations with enemies of the country's good. Republicans act differently, from the president, with his Raum and Egan, down to the pettiest politician in ward manipulation. And this is why the republican party grows more and more corrupt. Democrats denounce undemocratic men and measures, inside or outside of the party.

The Louisville Comercial says:

Ranting about the "force" bill now is rather amusing. The free trade question was pushed to the front to shove the silver question out of sight, and the attempt now to put the "force" bill forward is merely a retreat from the free trade issue.

The Bee would respectfully inquire if making the force bill a leading topic at Minneapolis, and incorporating approval of it with insinuating threatenings in the republican platform was an attempt to put it forward as an issue?

FORMAL CHARGES

Preferred Against Street Commissioner Bower,

And They Will be Examined by the Board of Revision on Thursday Morning—The Affidavit.

This morning there was filed with City Solicitor Read an affidavit formulating charges against Street Commissioner Henry Bower. These charges have been common talk on the street for a month past, but the board of revision refused to take hold of them until presented in proper form. The charges are now before the board of revision, and a hearing will be given them on Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, for which time all parties concerned have been subpoenaed.

The affidavit, which is made by Edward Kirkham, a former foreman of the street commissioner's department, is as follows:

State of Ohio, County of Lucas:

Know all men by these presents: that I, Edward Kirkham, hereby make oath that while I was acting in the capacity of foreman for Street Commissioner Henry Bower in the year 1890, from the commencement of said Bower's term of office to the expiration of the same in 1892, I was compelled by said Bower to carry on my time book the names of John Lemner at 30 cents per hour and James Kelley at 12 1-2 cents per hour, neither of whom did a day's work under me in all this time during which I was one of Mr. Bower's foremen. When I objected to placing these men on my "time book," Mr. Bower said I did not carry as many men on my roll as most of the foremen, and these names would not be noticed. I objected to this, but Mr. Bower insisted, and I finally placed the names on my time book. The amount of money thus drawn from the city treasury amounts in the case of James Lemner to $1,269 up to and including January 16, 1892; and James Kelley $510.25.

In April, 1892, shortly after Mr. Bower commenced his second term of office, he directed me to drop these names from my time roll.

These time checks were collected from me every week by the street commissioner himself; the records of the auditor show that they with numerous other checks were cashed by the Buckeye Brewing company, who receipted for them at the city auditor's office.

EDWARD KIRKHAM.

Sworn to and subscribed in my presence this 15th day of July, 1892.

Notary Public, Lucas Co., Ohio.

INDICTED COUNCILMEN

Will be Arraigned in Common Pleas Court

To-Morrow Morning—A Statement as to the Defense, and a Word From Assistant Prosecutor Sumner

The councilmen recently indicted will be arraigned in common pleas court to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock before Judges Lemmon and Harmon. It is reasonable to suppose that they will plead not guilty, and then the matter of fixing the time of trial will be settled. Counsel for defense will insist upon having the hearing of the cases taken up in their regular course, next term. The defense, it is said, desires a continuance to give the excitement time to settle down, holding that if they are pushed to trial at once they will be compelled to contend with the evil of the excitement and injustice of many inflated reports and statements which are still animate from the report of the grand jury, which has, they claim, directed public sentiment against them.

In conversation with a Bee this morning Deputy County Prosecutor Sumner said:

"We are ready to go to trial any time, and greatly prefer going ahead with the criminal trial at once than to have impeachment proceedings instituted. If we are allowed to go ahead with the prosecution under the indictments returned, we can develop our case, as we have taken it, and accomplish better results. However, if the city proceeds to impeach the accused, the result will most certainly cripple criminal prosecution. It will be necessary to divulge our case, which will give counsel for the defense a big advantage when the cases come to trial in common pleas court."

"Will the impeachment proceedings end prosecution so far as the state is concerned?"

"That will depend altogether upon the result of the impeachment trial. If the case results against the councilmen, the criminal prosecution will be pushed. If otherwise, whether we will prosecute the cases or not depends wholly upon the evidence of the impeachment cases."

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Queen Victoria has now entered upon the fifty-sixth year of her reign, eclipsing in length the rule of any present European potentate. Henry III. occupied the English throne for a like period, and George III. ruled for 59 years. The former, however, was a minor for seven years, and a regency of nine years passed under George's rule. Her majesty has virtually reigned longer than any English sovereign.

King Oscar of Sweden, who is now visiting in Paris, is a man of tall and spare figure, with white hair and beard that were black when he was last in the French capital. He enjoys excellent health. When the king visited President Carnot at the Elysee he wore the medal granted him by the French government for throwing himself before two horses that were running away with a carriage filled with ladies.

Gov. Russell, of Massachusetts, rides in the saddle from Cambridge every morning to the state house in Boston and takes his seat at his desk in boots and spurs. One advantage of this is that he is ready to mount at the hour of departure.

B. B. Bowell, of Lake county, an independent member of the last South Dakota legislature, is out in a letter in which he states that he hopes the new party "may yet be redeemed from a worse bossism than any other party has suffered in this country."

COMPANY, FRONT!

The Familiar Sound of Capt. Billy McMaken's Voice

Is Heard the Full Length of the Maumee River

As He Directs the Pride of the Future Great,

The Toledo Cadets, Now in Camp at Grand Rapids.

Dead Loads of Fun, With a Spattering of Work—The Bee Visits Headquarters and Gives the Fullest Details.

Imagine a green dotted here and there with gnarled oaks and spreading elms; imagine a picturesque country road, winding along the hill on the one side and a river gliding between the trees on the other, place your tents in here and there, conjure up bits of blue uniforms, stacked guns, bicycles without seeming end, banjos, guitars, photographic outfits, pipes and a thousand other things that go to make up camp life, and you have camp Toledo, the present habitation of the Toledo Cadets.

The camp is located just south of Grand Rapids, Ohio, about 26 miles from Toledo. It consists of twenty acres of land lying between the river road and the Maumee and is said to be the most pleasant location the Cadets have ever selected for a camp. At this point the river widens out to lake-like proportions and flows over a dam in murmuring falls that lull the campers-out to sleep with their never-ceasing song after taps at night.

The company street is level as a lawn, 244 feet long and 60 feet wide. Capt. McMaken's headquarters tent stretches across one end and the 60-foot bicycle tent occupies the other extremity. There are some forty tents up, including the guard house, the dining hall, cooking tents and the sutler's headquarters. The latter department is a most important one, for there the boys can buy cookies, cigars, soda water, ginger ale, sandwiches, candy, pop corn, bologna sausage and all the other things that tempt and delight the palate. The sutler is doing a good business and will make some money if the boys don't swoop down on him some dark night and clean out the profit in good old fashioned style.

The most of the tents have been fitted up in a very homey manner with stands, reclining camp chairs, settees, cushions, photographs and knic-knacks, and the camp presents a bright and lively appearance.

The boys arrived in camp Saturday, some making the run on bicycles in the morning, the others going out on train in the afternoon. The advance squad had fixed everything in ship shape. The wheels were taken out of the baggage car and the company, mounting, rode through the streets of Grand Rapids, much to the astonishment and delight of the natives, who, like most other people, had never seen bicycles rigged out with guns and mounted by real live soldiers.

The boys arrived at camp just in time for supper. Harry Cooper, the chef, who has catered to the cadets on previous occasions, knew their capacity for food, and had baked beans and pork until you couldn't look over the top. Not a bean survived to tell the tale of the onslaught. It was a glorious victory, and couldn't have been excelled even by Boston bean eating regulars.

Supper over the company went to work policing the tents. To those who do don't know what policing the tents means it might be well to add that it is cleaning up, weeding out, removing sticks, stones and stray papers, in fact a regular house-cleaning operation. This concluded, Camp Toledo commenced to breath life and be a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Those who don't think so are respectfully invited to attend.

Looking down the company street from the captain's tent the tents or messes are numbered, odd on the left and even numbers on the right. The boys have cliqued together in messes as follows, each mess of course occupying a tent:

Mess No. 1—Sergeants Irvine and Quine.
Mess No. 2—Sergeant Will Welbon and Jack Schmidt.
Mess No. 3—Sergeant Chas. O'Brien, Corporal Ed Pixley and Charley Peckham.
Mess No. 4—Corporal Will Philipps, Corporal Walter Ely, and Harry Bussell.
Mess No. 5—Corporal Lute Raymer, Frank Walsh and Charley Herroeder.
Mess No. 6—Harry Bromley and Lew Tappan.
Mess No. 7—Frank White, Will McHenry and Harry Conley.
Mess No. 8—Corporal Burt Hoag, August Engfer and Al. Heeson.
Mess No. 9—Allie Lamb, Al. Wolfert and Gordon Dickinson.
Mess No. 10—Al. Moore, John Dresser and James Lasalle.
Mess No. 11—Louis Spenker, Dave Wilder and Will Donaldson.
Mess No. 12—Jim Brailey and Harry Young.
Mess No. 13—Frank Lindsay, Herbert Adams and George Tucker.
Mess No. 14—Ed Trowbridge and Ed. Ryan.
Mess No. 15—Charley Ehni.
Mess No. 16—Frank Barschow, Jim Dyer and Star Souder.
Mess No. 17—Sergeant Gene Parsons, A. Scott and Joe Nigh.
Mess No. 18—Sergeant Harry Goodall, Corporal Julius Geleerd.

The tents of Lieutenants Watters and Howells are at the head of the street, flanking the headquarters tent.

Right back of the tents is the ten-acre parade ground, on which a fifty-foot flag staff has been erected. The flag goes up at reveille at 5 a. m. and drops at the last note of retreat after dress parade in the evening, flying to the breeze from sunrise to sunset.

The drill ground for the wheels is between the camp and the river. It is a level piece of ground free from grass, about 60 by 500 feet. The company had its first regular drill on wheels yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, and the manner in which the movements were executed was a pleasant surprise to Capt McMaken and all concerned. The wheel drill is executed according to cavalry tactics, and commands are given entirely by bugle calls. The prepare to mount and mount are the same as if the wheels were horses. The company is divided into four platoons, instead of two. The boys go through "fours right and left," "left front into line," "to the rear," etc., with almost as much precision as they do on foot.

Perhaps the most noticeable thing in camp is the abnormal size of appetites. Chef Cooper told a Bee that the boys would eat the tin cups if he fixed 'em up with a little sauce. Forty-seven of them ate twenty dozens of eggs, and the ham that went with the mat breakfast yesterday morning. At dinner fifty pounds of roast beef, two bushels of potatoes and six mammoth puddings and a sea of coffee were consumed.

The first dress parade came off last evening, and was a big success. The guests and ladies occupied camp chairs on the hill at the edge of the parade ground and the thousand or more people who had come from the village or driven in from the country banked themselves along the hillside and perched as gracefully as possible on the fences. It was a great feast for the rustic and his girl, and the sutler raked in many an honest penny on soda water and pop.

The band was up at 4:30 o'clock this morning. It was tough work. They couldn't see their notes and had to blow the fog out of their horns. Finally they got in shape and marched around the camp playing a march that pulled the boys out of their bunks. At 6 o'clock they sat down to a breakfast of liver and bacon. For dinner the menu was corned beef and cabbage, tomatoes and "pud." The cook says every man eats seven eggs and drinks four cups of coffee. They come up empty three times a day for the climate at camp is appetizing.

Adjutant General Pocock and Assistant Adjutant General Howe are expected to arrive to-morrow or Wednesday. Capt. Heistand, of the Eleventh Infantry, U. S. A., who, by the way, was a class-mate of Capt. McMaken at West Point, has been detailed by the war department to inspect the national guard of Ohio. He will be at the camp the fore part of the week to inspect the favorites of the Future Great.

Following is the camp routine, a perusal of which will give some idea of what the boys are doing in the way of work. The fun is sandwiched in between but it sticks out over the edges most of the time:

Reveille	5:00 a. m.
Squad drill	5:15 a. m.
Recall	5:30 a. m.
Sick call	5:45 a. m.
Mess call	6:00 a. m.

The war correspondent, inspired by the pastoral surroundings, wrote a little ditty, as follows:

On der geese berry tree
A big bimble bee

Of der schweets dot he eated.

Tales of the Encampment.

Hurrah for Camp Toledo.

Guards are kept out all night.

Lieut. Watters is the officer of the day to-day.

Wasn't the "pud" great at yesterday's dinner?

The vets will be entertained in camp to-morrow.

The briar pipe is the national flower in the camp.

The band gives a concert every evening after dress parade.

An excursion party from Napoleon visited camp yesterday.

Albert Moore is a snap-shot enthusiast, and has his camera along.

The camp boasts of a barber shop. His barbs arrived this morning.

Lieut. Howells' wife and children arrived in camp this afternoon.

Up at 5, to bed at 10:30, keeps a man healthy and hungry and dirty.

There are several bottles of Old Crow in camp, used to clean guns with.

J. S. Lamb and W. D. Smith, of Grand Rapids, are running the sutler's tent.

Chas. O'Brien enjoys the title of acting sergeant-major during the encampment.

Bert St. John, a vet, and Mrs. St. John, were guests at camp yesterday afternoon.

Sam Rowe and F. H. Zurfluh visited camp yesterday, coming down on their bicycles.

A big crowd of visitors will run down to camp next Sunday on the Clover Leaf excursion.

Dress parade comes off every evening at 6:10 o'clock. The village girls are out en masse.

Lieut. Watters was officer of the day Saturday. Lieut. Howells had that honor yesterday.

Don't eat peanuts and throw the shells inside the guard line, or you are liable to get jumped onto.

The camp routine has been printed in the national colors and copies posted in the various tents.

Jim Lasalle, Harvey Bromley and Walter Ely rode against time to Waterville yesterday afternoon.

Inky Jones, the colored mascot of the Cadets, is on hand working more and eating more than any 10 men.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hicox, formerly of Toledo, but now of Bowling Green, were visitors at the camp yesterday.

The bicycles are attended to as if they were horses. The wheel stable is 60 feet long, and every wheel has its stall.

Capt. McMaken is seriously thinking of going into training to reduce his weight to lessen up the strain on his wheel.

Jack Schmidt has his camera with him and is going to take snap shots at everything, even the trees if they don't leave.

Doc Yonker and Mrs. Yonker, of Bowling Green, spent yesterday in camp. Mr. Yonker is a warm friend of the Cadets.

Capt. McMaken is the happiest man in camp, wreathed in smiles always—that is except at drills, and is every inch a soldier.

E. W. Newton was the first visitor. He rode down from Toledo on his horse Saturday evening and remained in camp over Sunday.

Jack Schmidt has had his hair clipped short for the encampment. His resemblance has won for him the sobriquet of Bill Nye.

One of the attractions Saturday evening was an aurora borealis display, that without a doubt was the finest ever seen in these latitudes.

Geo. Miller, A. T. Ely and P. H. Goodall rode out to camp from Toledo yesterday on their wheels, making the run in three hours.

A number of the boys went swimming in the old lock this morning at 6. Fishing is excellent in the river, and the angler will get his work in shortly.

The first target practice was had this afternoon. There will be shooting daily by squads. The targets are on the river bank, 200 and 300 yard ranges.

Jim Lasalle, the bugler of the company, has his wheel finished all over in white enamel. The rest of the wheels are black. The contrast is very pretty.

The Cadets have appropriately selected red, white and blue as the company colors, and the wheels have been decorated with ribbon streamers accordingly.

Three of the colored boys were out digging a hole yesterday. They made a hit by putting handkerchiefs around their necks that they might not get tanned.

The drum major of the band wears a Zouave uniform on dress parade, and twirls his baton upside down and all round. He is something of a dandy.

Corporal Ed Pixley is one of the feather-weight riders, but his friends will be pleased to learn that the rough condition of the roads will lengthen him out.

The Sixteenth regiment band arrived on a steamer from Napoleon yesterday afternoon. They will do the tooting for the encampment. F. J. Adams is the leader.

The guard detail for to-day is as follows: Sergeant O'Brien, Corporal Ely, Corporal Phillips, Privates Dickenson, Herroeder, Lindsay, McHenry, Tucker and Wilder.

Inky's colored cadets are in camp waiting on table. They are Harry Cooper, Harry Allen, Dunkey Anderson, Claud Speed and Mr. Fred Douglas George Washington Brown.

Messrs. O'Brien, Pixley and Peckham, mess No. 3, have their tent fixed up tastily, and their abode is the headquarters for the ladies with whom the trio are great favorites always.

To test the efficiency of the wheels for military use on country roads, Capt. McMaken will take the company on several runs during the week, going to Waterville, Bowling Green and Haskins.

The newspaper men are under great obligations to Ed Pixley, Chas. O'Brien and Chas. Peckham, who looked after their comfort after arriving in the camp, even going so far as to tuck them in bed.

Sergeant Welbon and Jack Schmidt are comfortably settled in tent No. 2, where they are holding open house. They are handing out souvenirs in the shape of small photographs of themselves inscribed Jack and Will.

Harvey Bromley is very clever with his pencil, and has made several sketches of camp life. A number of the boys are artistically inclined and do considerable sketching in the picturesque spots along the river.

The boys have a little musicale after the band concert evenings. Sergeants Irvine and Welbon and Corporal Pixley have banjos along, Jack Schmidt has a guitar and Jim Lasalle sports a violin. This orchestra makes a music that for the kind is unexcelled.

Mr. and Mrs. Webber are at camp today. They started from Toledo on their naptha launch Nellie yesterday with a party consiting of Mrs. Wm. V. McMaken, Mrs. Thos. Watters, Miss Helen Shafer, Miss Anna McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Hanner, Ed. Gruber, Mrs. Lou Hanner and Fred Gruber. The handsome yacht is on the Cadets' calling list, and they are royally treated on board.

PARTY PLATFORMS

Not Encouraging to the Cause of Equal Rights.

Not What is Our Theory, but What Are Our Facts, to be the Watchword of the Political Equality Club.

The Political Equality club held its July meeting Saturday afternoon in the office of the Woman's Recorder. There was a goodly number present, and the meeting was a very interesting one. The platforms of the different political parties or rather the planks in each, that refer, or might be construed to refer to suffrage for women, were read by the president, Mrs. Q. C. Murphy, and commented upon by the lady.

The only clause in the democratic platform that could be construed to refer to this question, is the one in section 17, in which liberal appropriations for common schools are commended, "Popular education being the only safe basis of popular suffrage."

In the platform of the republican party there is a clause that reads: "We demand that every citizen of the United States shall be allowed to cast one free and unrestricted ballot in all public elections, and that such ballot shall be counted and returned as cast." As woman has been declared a citizen by the supreme court of the United States, this might be very easily construed as being a declaration of equal rights. Mr. Foraker does not so construe it, however, and it is not likely that it is so understood by his party.

The platform of the people's party dodges this question, notwithstanding the fact that their delegates were many of them women, as were their best speakers. They openly acknowledge that they are afraid to declare in favor of suffrage for women, though they believe it is right. The prohibition party is the only one that declares openly and unrestrictedly for woman suffrage, and as their chances of victory are very slim, such declaration is not liable to be of any great benefit.

One or the other of the two great parties must declare for equal rights for women before it can be reasonably expected to gain ground, and neither of them will run the risk of antagonizing the southern vote, until women all over the country have expressed a desire for a voice in the making of laws by which they are governed and demonstrated their ability to use that voice effectively. Let us work with a will and a purpose during this campaign for the party of our preference, and when, not one, or a dozen, or twenty women, but the majority of the women of this great country ask with one voice for the right to vote, they will get it, and not before.

As lectures are believed to be good educators, when delivered by good speakers, it was decided to have a course of six or more during the winter and the corresponding secretary was instructed to write Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, of Massachusetts, secretary of the national woman's suffrage association, and other eastern speakers of note to see what terms can be made with them.

A lawn fete will probably be given during the latter part of August, and Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Rhinehart and Miss Calkins were appointed a committee to consider the matter and make a report at the next meeting which will be held Saturday afternoon, August 20, with Mrs. Moore, on Maplewood avenue.

The committee on parliamentary drill are Mrs. Bealy, Mrs. Emma Harley and Mrs. Murphy.

Mrs. Dr. Clark, of Perrysburg, and Mrs. W. L. Ross, of Weston, were the guests of the club.

AMUSEMENTS.

Barnum & Bailey and Primrose & West This Week.

The Famous Minstrel Duo Will be Here Friday, and the Circus Comes Saturday.

What Augustin Daly and his company are to the comedy side of the American stage, so are Primrose and West, with their unrivalled organization to the field of minstrelsy. In their different lines both are leaders. They each have rivals, but few equals. Minstrelsy is a purely American form of entertainment, and Primrose and West are at the head of its recognized exponents. Year after year they have toiled, striven and perfected their performance, till now it is accepted as the beau ideal of the minstrels' art. They have retained the salient points of original minstrels, and have progressed with the advanced conceptions of the same. Where other minstrel organizations have lost themselves in spectacular, or buried themselves beneath a debris of variety specialties, Primrose and West have kept steadily along in their own clear and well-beaten track of the genuine minstrels' art. They appear here next Friday night at the Wheeler opera house, and it goes without saying that they will be greeted by a large audience.

"Columbus, and the Discovery of America, is, bewildering and astounding in its dazzling splendor, the circus is fascinating in its varied entertainment, the double menageries an education in natural history, the whole show is an eagle's flight above all others." That is what has been said of the immense exhibition Barnum & Bailey will bring here on Saturday next, and which is, in fact, nothing less than The Greatest Show on Earth. Nothing that can be written would convey an idea of its great magnitude and extent. To say that 1,200 people are on its pay rolls, and that those 1,200 persons are all the finest circus, hippodrome, aerial and other wonderful performers, conveys but a faint idea, for among them are operatic, dramatic, tragic, pantomine, scenic, classic, terpsichorean and other accomplished artists, actors, dancers, and experts. The spectacle of Columbus alone embracing nearly every phase of histronic art from comedy to tragedy, and with the most magnificent ballet ever devised, requiring 300 dancing girls. Then there are menageries of trained and wild beasts, three circus rings, elevated stages, racing track, one monster stage, 450 feet long, enormous tents at least two acres of elegant scenery, and—well, it must be seen, it cannot be described.

Renewed experiments in growing seeds in electrified earth have been made by Dr. James Leicester, of Bristol, England, with striking results. A small box filled with soil was used, containing at each end a copper and a zinc plate joined outside by copper wire. The slow chemical action on the zinc sent a constant electric current through the soil to the copper. Ten different kinds of seeds were tried, and they all grew in the box with extraordinary rapidity.

Some trials with solidified petroleum were made a few weeks ago at the works of the Solidified Petroleum corporation at Hackney Wick-London, and they demonstrated that a six-horse-power tubular boiler containing 80 gallons of water could be heated by 62 pounds of the Chenhall fuel, or solidified oil, and in 36 minutes steam raised to indicate 60 pounds to the inch, while it took 106 pounds of coal and wood to raise 60 pounds in one hour's time.

Ex-Representative Barnes, of Georgia, once the "fat man of the house," spent two days in Washington recently and devoted a great part of one to making a call on an old colored couple who used to be slaves in Georgia.

OHIO CENTRAL TRAFFIC.

The T., C. & C. Deal With the Big Four Off.

J. M. Osborn of This City an Important Witness—The Harris Toy Company—Railroad Earnings—Other Matters.

The amount of coal that is moving on local roads can be ascertained from the following table, taken from the reports of the Ohio Coal Traffic association. It shows the number of cars of coal handled this month up to and including July 13:

C., H. V. & T.	3,587 car loads.
Toledo & Ohio Central	1,535 car loads.
B. & O.	770 car loads.
Wheeling & Lake Erie	2,301 car loads.
C., L. & W.	1,714 car loads.
C., H. & S.	755 car loads.

A Toledoan Subpoenaed.

J. M. Osborne, of Toledo, division freight agent of the Wabash railroad, has been subpoenaed to appear before the interstate commerce commission at Chicago to act as a witness in the investigations of charges that a number of railroads are giving discriminating rates on eastbound shipments. A number of other well known railroaders have been given notice to be present.

'Twill Not Be Sold.

Said an official of the Ohio Central lines this morning: "The Big Four will not buy the Toledo, Columbus & Cincinnati railroad. That point is settled. There was some talk of such a deal some time ago and well founded talk, too. Both companies put out a few feelers but perhaps while the Big Four was not over anxious to buy, the T., C. & C. company was not aching to sell, so the matter languished. It was thought that the matter would come up again the latter part of last month, but it did not and the sale is off."

The Harris Toy Co.

The Harris Toy company of this city, has presented Commercial Agent C. T. Wight and other officials of the B. & O. with a miniature train of cars, the latest production of the company, represening the B. & O. Royal Blue train that runs from New York to Washington. Mr. Wight has one of the miniature trains over the fire place in his office.

Ohio Central Earnings.

The earnings of the Ohio Ceneral lines for the secon dweeks of July, 1891 and '92, are a sfollows:

T. & O. C.

1892	$30,929
1892	30,114
Increase	$ 815

T., C. & C.

1892	$5,862
1891	5,292
	$ 570

Leasing the C., J. & M.

Ameeting of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton stockholders is being held today to act on the matter of leasing the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw. The stockholders of the latter road will hold a meeting in Toledo, July 22, for the same purpose. The whole matter of the leasing is all arranged. Th emeetings are but formalities.

In this Vicinity.

For various reasons the Central Traffic association has refused excursion rates to the following meetings in this vicinity:

Twentieth Ohio regiment volunteer infantry, at Cedar Point, July 22-23.

Ohio Christian Alliance midsummer convention, at Beulah Park, near Collingwood, O., July 14.

Miami Ohio Christian conference, at Troy, O., September 3 to 7.

Along the Rails.

General Passenger Agent J. M. Hall, of the W. & L. E., is at Detroit to-day.

E. N. Kendall, traveling freight agent of the B. & O., is at Grand Rapids, Mich.

General Passenger Agent W. H. Fisher, of the C., H. V. & T., is in Toledo this afternoon.

General Freight Agent H. J. Booth, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, returned last night from a trip down the line.

L. P. Landman, southern passenger agent of the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo railroad, is in town to-day.

The local lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers went on a basket picnic to Baw Beese lake this morning.

W. A. Sprott, commercial agent at Cincinnati, and Geo. A. Rump, constructing agent of the Wabash, were in the city yesterday.

F. B. Swayne is attending a meeting of the C., H. & D. stockholders at Cincinnati to-day.

General Manager F. B. Drake, of the Cincinnati, Jackson & Mackinaw, returned from Mackinaw this afternoon, where he left his family.

General Manager A. G. Blair and Coal Traffic Manager W. H. Vance, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, are in Cleveland to-day attending a meeting of the Ohio Coal Traffic association.

TIME, 11:45.

Amelie—Am I your "bright particular star," Dick?

Dick—Yes, dear.

Amelie—Am I the evening star?

Dick—Yes, pet.

Amelie—The evening star is not the same as the morning star, is it, Dick?

Dick (glancing at his watch)—I think I must go now, angel.—New York Herald.

There are in southwest Missouri many openings in the earth which are called "blow holes" and "cold caves," from which issues a cold blast of air. A local theory is that the temperature of these places is reduced by the enormous deposits of ammonia, caused by the presence of bats.

POKER CHIPS.

The man who makes a practice of bluffing gets good betting when he has a big hand.

Even if you are an anarchist, it is pretty safe to bet on kings.

It doesn't pay to play the deuce.

The bashful girl isn't appreciated in the game because she is apt to be shy.

If you find the night too warm to sleep, play poker.

The man whose wife was reported to have presented him with five babies had a full house in more ways than one.

If you see a man look at his hand more than once, don't bet, because he can hardly believe his own luck.

It is natural for a girl not to know about her age.

The Irish girl can always stand Pat.

Don't imagine that the card room of an ocean steamship is on the deck.

Never play if you are color blind. It is foolish to invest a blue chip on a white chip hand.

It is advisable for the lover to teach his girl to play, for then he will have the privilege of calling any time.

The only one who never loses anything playing poker is the ragpicker.

TO THE LAMP-POST!

Reviewers must live, one supposes,
For they most incontestably do.
They thrust out the thorns on our roses,
They teach us to turn up our noses,
They prove that far older than Moses
Are the things we thought charmingly new.

Perhaps 'tis all in their vocation,
Perhaps they would starve, did they not;
But one thing demands legislation,
One criminal, extermination,—
Or, at the least, expatriation,—
The reviewer who tells us the plot.

When life, though we patiently take it,
Is often so bitter a pill;
So acid a draught, though we shake it,
And strive effervescent to make it,
May we not, for a moment, forsake it
By losing ourselves in a thrill?

If mystery veil the last pages,
We can live in the heroine's life,—
Or the hero's,—can rage when he rages,
Can fight in the battle he wages,
And come, by his various stages,
Triumphantly out of the strife.

But when, before even beginning,
We know what the end is, how tame
Becomes the amusement—the spinning
And weaving employed for our winning
Seem visibly shrinking and thinning;
And for this is the author to blame?

No! Perish the heartless reviewer
Who mars that which make he could not!
Let him give, for the old, something newer;
Let him give, for the false, something truer;
Let each reader become his pursuer—
This wretch who betrayed the plot!

The Petit Journal, according to the latest report, has reached the enormous circulation of 1,250,000 copies. It is printed on wood pulp paper, the raw material—the fir—being brought from Norway and Austria. The little journal consumes in twelve months 120,000 fir trees, each having an estimated hight of 66 feet, equal to the annual clearing of a forest having an area of 25,000 acres.

At Cahoes, France, the workmen on the foundations for a convent unearthed a large house of the Gallo-Roman period, the mosaic floors of which are in place and enough of the walls to reveal frescoes in a fair state of preservation. It is supposed to have been destroyed in the sixth century, when Theodebert sacked the town. Pottery fragments, bronzes and coins are found on the site.

SHE WAS STRONG MINDED.

"Just drive me about London for an hour or so, will you?"

"Certainly, sir. Any pertickler part?"

"No. All the best streets, you know, and that sort of thing."

"I understand, sir"—and off they started.

"Rum order," said Tom Dickson to himself, as he woke his horse up a bit. "Party from the country wants to see a little life, I expect."

The little old gentleman had lit a big cigar and, his hands plunged deep into his pockets, was leaning back with the air of a man who, having nothing whatever to do, intended to do it thoroughly, and Tom Dickson heard him murmur—

"Who cares a hang now for the whole Woskins family?"

"Independent party, evidently," said Tom; "wonder who he is."

At the end of an hour the old gentleman stopped the cab.

"I'm getting hungry, I shall go and dine," he said. "What's your name, cabman?"

"Tom, sir. Tom Dickson."

"Well, Tom Dickson, you're a most agreeable fellow. I've come to London just to—just to—er—take a brief holiday ("I thought so," said Tom to himself), and, as I am a stranger here, perhaps you could tell me of a place to stay at for a day or two—not a hotel, but a nice, clean, quiet, comfortable lodging."

Tom thought a moment.

"If I might venture to recommend it to you, sir," he said, "my wife has got a room we could put you in. 'Taint very swell, sir; ours is only a—"

"Bless your soul, I'm not a swell. I don't want a palace. I want a nice, clean, quiet—"

"Ours is all that, sir," interrupted Tom, growing bolder.

"Then I'll take it," said the other, decisively.

And so it came about that the little old gentleman—Mr. Robert Smith he said his name was—took up his lodging with the Dicksons, and at once proved himself to be of so affable and pleasant a disposition that, when he had retired to bed—after engaging Tom to drive him out next day to "see the sights"—both Tom and his wife agreed that a great slice of luck had fallen to them.

"But I can't for the life of me make him out," said the cabman. "Rum thing for a gentleman like him to stay at a place like ours!"

Next day drive out to see the sights they did, only resting to refresh themselves and the horse, for whose comfort Mr. Smith was most solicitous.

"I've got a pony of my own at home," he explained, and Tom noticed that he heaved a deep sigh as he pronounced the latter word.

It was rather late in the evening when they returned, Tom with his neck aching from so much bending down to speak through the trap of the cab, and Mr. Smith fairly fatigued with his arduous outing.

Indeed, as they sat around the fire, it soon became evident that the day's sightseeing had been more than enough for him; his remarks grew gradually more incoherent and rambling, and he went comfortably off to sleep.

Suddenly Mrs. Dickson started. Tom looked up. She passed the paper to him, her finger denoting a paragraph which he was to read:

£25 REWARD—Missing. Richard Sprudd of The Poplars, Brukenal, near Reading; left home on morning of the 23d inst., and has not been seen since; height 5 feet 2 inches; age 55; dressed in black frock coat and vest, striped gray trousers, silk hat; slight cast in one eye, mild appearance; carried an umbrella with white bone handle; any one giving information as to his whereabouts to Mrs. W., at the above address, will receive the said reward.

The description was exact, even to the umbrella! Tom Dickson looked at his wife, pointed to the notice and to the sleeper. His wife nodded vigorously. Then in his sudden excitement Tom forgot himself.

"But his name is Smith," he cried, triumphantly, "not Sprudd!"

"Hullo! Yes! What is it?"

As if he had been touched by an electric wire the old gentleman leaped to his feet. Tom and his wife bounded in their chairs.

"I thought I heard some one call 'Sprudd'—I mean 'Smith,'" he stammered, staring around wildly.

Without a word Tom handed to him the paper. His face went pale, then turned a fiery purple.

"This," he cried, dashing the paper to the ground, "is the work of Mrs. Woskins;" and then, turning upon them, asked, desperately, "And you? Shall you give me up?"

"Lor', sir," cried Tom, while his wife shrank behind him, "you ain't a criminal, are you?"

"No," replied Mr. Sprudd, dramatically, "Thank goodness! I am still innocent; their persecution has not yet driven me to the desperate extremity of taking life."

"Then, sir, you may live and die here without a soul knowing of it," said Tom.

Mr. Sprudd caught him eagerly by the hand. "Thank you! Thank you!" he cried, his voice trembling with emotion. "Listen, and I will tell you my story.

"Five years ago I lost my wife, and in an evil moment agreed to my sister-in-law's proposition, that she should come with her two sons and stay at my house for a while to make things more comfortable for me.

"Mrs. Woskins is the strongest-minded, most able-bodied lady you ever saw. She and her offspring arrived, and from that hour until yesterday morning my life was not my own. Once in the house they positively refused again to leave it, and gradually assumed complete possession of home, my affairs, and of me.

"At last, unable longer to bear their tyrannical supervision, I fled, leaving everything but my banking account in their hands, and rather than again resume that dreadful life I would remain here forever, even if I had, like you, to earn my living with a cab. Yet, even now, I have no peace. They have offered a reward for me. She will be sure to find me out."

"Don't take on so, sir," said Tom, consolingly, surely there's some way of getting rid of 'em?"

"None, none," replied Mr. Sprudd, dismally. "I've threatened everything that I could think of, but without success. You may call me weak-minded, timid chicken-hearted, if you will, but you don't know her; you don't know my wife's sister. How I have escaped becoming a lunatic or a murderer I don't know!"

A lunatic and a murderer! With these words there came to Tom Dickson a sudden inspiration.

"Look here. What do you say to letting me go down and have a shot at dislodging the enemy?"

Mr. Sprudd gazed at the daring cabman in surprise, not unmingled with admiration; as he dwelt upon it, the idea seemed a happy one.

"You're a bold man, Tom Dickson," he said, regarding his friend with increased respect. "You shall go. It is the last chance. There are three cottages upon the estate. If you succeed, the one nearest my house is yours."

The following afternoon Mrs. Woskins received a visit from a man who, by the eagerness of his manner and the intense excitement depicted upon his startled face, had evidently something of the utmost importance to communicate.

"I am a warder at the lunatic asylum, ma'am," he commenced, "and for the last two days have had charge of a little old gentleman, of peaceful demeanor, with a slight cast—"

"Stop!" exclaimed Mrs. Woskins, holding up an enormous hand; "that man is Richard Sprudd, my departed sister's husband. Ah! I felt that something dreadful had happened."

"It has, ma'am," continued the warder. "Until last night he was as quiet as a lamb, when suddenly he broke out into the most frightful fit of violence you can possibly imagine. He raved and bit and stamped and swore; smashed all the windows; battered in the door of his cell; tried to throw the matron over the balusters of the topmost landing, and nearly brained the doctor with a bootjack.

"And yet," continued the warder, "just like all these mad people, it is against you and your sons that he raves, declaring you to be the cause of all his trouble."

"Warder," said Mrs. Woskins, nervously, as she took half a sovereign from her purse and placed it in his hand, "I am at least relieved to hear that he is being taken care of. Go down into the kitchen before you leave and the servants will help you to some refreshments."

"Thank you, ma'am."

"And, warder, perhaps you would like to call in occasionally, say once a week, and have a bit of dinner, and bring me news of my sister's husband—that he is quite safe, and so on."

"Safe, ma'am! I wish he was," cried the warder. "Armed with a hammer and a large knife, he this morning escaped from the asylum."

Mrs. Woksins gave a cry of affright. "And you don't know where he is?" she yelled.

"I wish I did!" said the warder. "I only know that he was seen coming in this direction, shouting at the top of his voice. 'I'll paint the railings with their blood!'"

With one shriek Mrs. Woskins rushed from the room, and, only pausing to warn her sons of their imminent danger, with them she sought the railway station and departed.

Less than an hour afterwards Mr. Sprudd, waiting patiently in the cabman's little parlor, received a telegram from Tom Dickson which ran:

"Come down at once. Enemy completely routed. Am waiting for the cottage."—Boston Herald.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

On a recent visit to the Gobelin Tapestry works President Carnot discovered a magnificent piece of tapestry that had been bought for the palace at Fontainebleau thirty years ago, but had not yet been delivered.

Herbert Spencer, who lives quietly in Regent Park among his books and with the society of a few old friends, is described by the Paris Register as "a singularly modest man, with gentle voice and almost feminine grace."

Taine, the famous French author, is devoted to cats. He likes to sit with one in his lap, and often kneels before a chair in which one of these creatures is lying and talks to it affectionately. He has also composed sonnets to them.

Prof. Attwater, scientist and man ahead of his time, claims that modern cooking is primitive, wasteful and the least developed of the arts. Ward McAllister, high steward at large, has also large ideas concerning culinary economy.

It is pretty certain that Corot, the French artist, did not paint more than 700 sketches, and yet there have been 12,000 examples of his work palmed upon a picture-buying public, which has only just begun to learn that auction-catalogued pictures are not always what they pre-

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

Why is it that some houses always need repainting?

The owner has them painted in the Spring; by Fall they have a dingy, rusty, faded look.

A neighbor's always looks fresh, clean, and newly painted, and yet is not re-painted oftener than every four or five years.

The first "economizes" by using "CHEAP" paint; the second uses nothing but

TALMAGE IN MANCHESTER

He Talks on the Possessions of a Christian.

They Have Not the Title Deed, but They Own All That is Pure and Beautiful on Earth.

London, Eng., July 18.—Dr. Talmage's preaching tour in England has been a continued series of unprecedented successes. The English people have assembled by thousands to hear the American preacher wherever he has preached. In Manchester the great Free Trade hall was engaged for him. It holds seven thousand persons, but it would not contain a third of the people who tried to get in. The streets leading to the hall were jammed with a dense, surging mass of humanity. After the services Dr. Talmage preached in the street to the crowd, which numbered fully fifteen thousand. The sermon selected for this week is entitled, "Our Possessions," from 1 Corinthians 3:32: "All are yours."

The impression is abroad that religion puts a man on short allowance; that when the ship sailing heavenward comes to the shining wharf, it will be found out that all the passengers had the hardest kind of sea-fare; that the soldiers of Christ's army march most of the time with an empty harversack; in a word, that only those people have a good time in this world who take upon themselves no religious obligation.

I want to-day to find out whether this is so, and I am going to take account of stock; I am going to show what are the Christian's liabilities, and what is his income, and what are his warrantee deeds, and what are his bonds and mortgages, and I ssall find out before I finish just how much he is worth, and I shall spread before you the balance-sheet in time to warn you all against the religion of Jesus Christ, if indeed, it be a failure, and in time for you all to accept it, if, indeed, it be a success. I turn first to the assets, and I find there what seems to be a roll of government securities—the empire of Heaven promising all things to the possessor. The three small words of my text are a warrantee deed to the whole universe when it says, "All are yours."

In making an inventory of the Christian's possessions, I remark, in the first place, that he owns this world. My text implies it, and the preceding verse asserts it—"whether Paul, or Appollos, or Cephas, or the world." Now, it would be an absurd thing to suppose that God would give to strangers the privileges and advantages which he would deny his own children. If you have a large park, a grand mansion, beautiful fountains, stalking deer, and statuary, to whom will you give the first right to all these possessions? To outsiders? No, to your own children. You will say, "It will be very well for outsiders to come in and walk these paths and enjoy this landscape; but the first right to my house, the first right to my statuary, the first right to my gardens, shall be in the possesion of my own children."

Now, this world is God's park, and while he allows those who are not his children and who refuse his authority the privilege of walking through the gardens, the possession of all this grandeur of park and mansion is in the right of the Christian—the flowers, the diamonds, the silver, the gold, the morning brightness, and the evening shadow. The Christian may not have the title deed to one acre of land as recorded in the clerk's office, he may never have paid one dollar of taxes; but he can go up on a mountain and look off upon fifty miles of grain and say, "All this is mine; my father gave it to me." "All are yours."

A lawyer is sometimes required to search titles, and the client who thinks he has a good right to an estate puts the papers into his hands, and the lawyer goes into the public records and finds everything right for three or four years back; but after a while he comes to a break in the title, to a deficit, to a diversion of the property; so he finds out that the man who supposed he owned it owns not an acre of the ground, while somebody else has the full right to the entire estate. Now, I examine the title to all earthly possessions. I go back a little way, and I find that men of the world—bad men, selfish men, wicked men— think they have a right to all these possessions; but I go further back and I title from year to year, and from century to century, until I find the whole right vested in God. Now, to whomm did he give it? To his own children! "All are yours."

The simple fact is that in the last days of the world all the architecture, all the cities, all the mountains, all the villages will be in the possession of the Church of Christ. "The meek shall inherit the earth." Ships of Tarshish shall bring presents. "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." "All are yours." "But,' you say, "what satisfaction is there in that when I haven't possession of them?" These things will come before the Supreme Judge of the universe, and he will regulate the title, and he will eject these squatters upon the property that does not belong to them, and it shall be found that "All are yours."

So again the refinements of life are the Christian's rights. He has a right to as good apparel, to as beautiful adornments to as commodious a residence as the worldling. Show me any passage in the Bible that tells the people of the world they have privileges, they have glittering spheres, they have befitting apparel that are denied the Christian. There is no one who has so much a right to laugh, none so much a right to everything that is beautiful and grand and sublime in life as the Christian. "All are yours." Can it be possible that one who is reckless and sinful and has no treasures laid up in heaven is to be allowed pleasures which the sons and daughters of God, the owners of the whole universe, are denied?

So I remark that all the sweet sounds of the world are in the Christian's right. There are people who have an idea that instruments of music are inappropriate for the Christian's parlor. When did the house of sin or the bacchanal get the right to music? They have no right to it. God, in my text, makes over to Christian people all the pianos, all the harps, all the drums, all the cornets, all the flutes, all the organs. People of the world may borrow them, but they only borrow them; they have no right or title to them. God gave them to Christian people in my text, when he said, "All are yours."

David no more certainly owned the harp with which he thrummed the priases of God than the Church of Christ owns now all chants, all anthems, all ivory key boards, all organ diapasons, and God will gather up these sweet sounds after a while, and he will mingle them in one great harmony, and the Mendelssohns and the Beethovens and the Mozarts of the earth will join their voices and their musical instruments, and the soft south wind, and loud-lunged euroclydon will sweep the great organ pipes, and you shall see God's hand striking the keys, and God's foot tramping the pedals in the great oritorio of the ages!

So all artistic and literary advantages are in the Christian's right. I do not care on whose wall the picture hangs, or on whose pedestal the sculpture stands, it belongs to Christians. The Bierstadts and the churches are all working for us. "All are yours." The Luxembourgs, the Louvre, all the galleries of Naples, and Rome, and Venice—they are all to come into the possession of the Church of Jesus Christ. We may not now have them on our walls, but the time will come when the writ of ejectment will be served and the church will possess everything. All parks, all fish ponds, all colors, all harvests—all, "all are yours."

Secondly, I remark that the right to full temporal support is in the Christian's name. It is a great affair to feed the world. Just think of the fact that this morning sixteen hundred millions of our race breakfasted at God's table The commissary department of a hundred thousand men in an army will engage scores of people; but just think of a commissary department of the world! Think of gathering up from the rice swamps, and the tea fields, and the orchards, and the fisheries! No one but God could tell how many bushels it would take to feed five continents.

Then, to clothe all these people—how many furs must be captured, and how much flax broken, and how much cotton picked. Just think of the infinite wardrobe where sixteen hundred millions of people get their clothes! God spreads the table first of all for his children. Of course, that would be a very selfish man who would not allow other people to come and sit at his table sometimes; but, first of all, the right is given to Christian people, and therefore it is extreme folly for them ever to fret about food or raiment. Who fed the whales sporting off Cape Hatteras this morning? Out of whose hand did the cormorant pick its food? Whose loom wove the butterfly's wing? Who hears the hawk's cry? If God takes care of a walrus, and a Siberian dog, and a wasp, will he not take care of you? Will a father have more regard for reptiles than for his sons and daughters? If God clothes the grizzly bear, and the panther, and the hyena, will he not clothe his own children? Come, then, this morning, and get the key of the infinite storehouse. Come and get the key of the infinite wardrobe. Here they are—all the keys. "All are yours."

So all the vicissitudes of this life, so far as they have any religious profit, are in the right of the Christian. If you should stand among the Allegheny mountains, especially near what is called the "Horseshoe," you would find a train of cars almost doubling on itself, and sitting in the back car you see a locomotive coming as you look out of the window, and you think it is another train when it is only the front of the train in which you are riding; and sometimes you can hardly tell whether the train is going toward Pittsburg or toward Philadelphia, but it is on the track, and it will reach the depot for which it started, and all the passengers will be discharged at the right place. Now, there are a great many sharp curves in life. Sometimes we seem to be going this way and sometimes we seem to be going that way, but if we are Christians we are on the right track, and we are going to come out at the right place. Do not get worried, then, about the sharp curve. A sailing vessel starts from New York for Glasgow. Does it go in a straight line? Oh, no. It changes its tack every little while. Now, you say, "This vessel, instead of going to Glasgow, must be going to Havre, or it is going to Hamburg, or it is going to Marseilles." No, no. It is going to Glasgow. And in this voyage of life we often have to change our tack. One storm blows us this way, another storm blows us that way, but he who holds the storms in his fist will bring us into a haven of everlasting rest just at the right time. Do not worry, then, if you have to change tack.

One of the best things that ever happened to Paul was being thrown off his horse. One of the best things that ever happened to Joseph was being thrown into the pit. The losing of his physical eyesight helped John Milton to see the battle of the angles. One of the best things that ever happened to Ignatius was being thrown to the wild beasts in the Coliseum, and while eighty thousand people were jeering at his religion he walked up to the fiercest of all the lions and looked him in the eye as much as to say, "Here I am, ready to be devoured for Christ's sake." All things work together for your good. If you walk the desert the manna will fall and the sea will part. If the feverish torch of sickness is kindled over your pillow, by its light you can read the promises. If the waves of trouble dash high above your girdle, across the blast and across the surge you can hear the promise, "When thou passeth through the waters, I will be with thee." You never owned a glove, or a shoe, or a hat, or a coat more certainly than you own all the frets and annoyances and exasperations of this life, and they are bound to work out your present and your eternal good. They are the saws, the hammers, the files by which you are to be hewn and cut and smoothed for your eternal well-being.

Here is a vessel that goes along the coast; it hugs the coast. The captain of that vessel seems chiefly anxious to keep the paint on the ship from being marred or the sails from being torn. When that vessel comes to port nobody looks on it with any interest. But here is a vessel that went across the sea with vast product, and comes in with vast importation—sails patched, masts spliced, pumps all working to keep out the water; it has come through the hurricane which has sunk twenty steamers. The bronzed men are cheering among the rigging. Now the men-of-war anchored in the harbor boom forth their welcome through the portholes. So there are some Christians who are having an easy time. It seems to them smooth sailing all the way. When they get into heaven there will be no excitement, there will be very few people who will ever find out they are there; but those Christians who have gone through a hundred midnight hurricanes—storm to the right of them, storm to the left of them, storm all the way—when they come up the harbor of heaven all the redeemed will turn out to greet them, and bid them hail and welcome.

THINGS WORTH REMEMBERING.

When you feel a kind of goneness about the stomach it is a sign that your food does not sit well and that you are about to have a fit of indigestion.

When you begin to feel nervous and are unable to sit still comfortably; when your clothes suddenly seem to lose their fit and become too tight in places the fit of indigestion is surely upon you.

When this fit of indigestion is repeated from day to day it finally resolves itself into dyspepsia.

Remember that three to ten of Brandreth's Pills will cure the worst case of indigestion or dyspepsia, or both, and that a regular course of them, say two every night for a week or ten days, will act as a preventive of either complaint.

CHAIRMAN CARTER.

The Land Commissioner to Lead the Republican Forces.

New York, July 18.—The republican national committee at the Saturday afternoon session, after casting about for some time for a man to head the committee, selected Thomas H. Carter. Mr. Carter is but 38 years old, having been born in June Furnace, Scioto county, O., in 1854. In 1865 he removed to Peoria, Ill., where he lived until 1875, when he moved to Burlington, Iowa. He studied law in Louisville, Ky., and in Illinois, being admitted to the bar in Nebraska. In 1882 he moved to Helena, Mont., which is now his home. He was elected territorial delegate to the Fifty-first congress, and on the admission of Montana as a state, in November, 1889, was elected to congress as its first representative. He was renominated in 1890, but was defeated. In March, 1891, he was appointed by President Harrison as United States land commissioner.

When Mr. Carter was asked if the acceptance of the chairmanship entailed the resignation of his position in the land office, he replied: "I shall resign, at all events."

CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

One of the Largest Conventions Ever Held in the West.

West Island, in Lake Pepler, the Scene of a Great Gathering This Week.

St. Paul, Minn., July 18.—One of the largest Christian conventions ever held in the west opened yesterday on West island in Lake Pepin, two miles from Lake City, and which was purchased some time ago by John G. Willey, the noted evangelist and temperance worker, for the exclusive purpose of a Christian temperance mission.

Several thousand people are in attendance, and many more are expected before the close of the convention. During the week Miss Frances Willard will lay the corner-stone of the Willard cottage, and which is to be devoted to the permanent use of the island mission guests.

Among those who will speak during the week are Rev. W. H. Boole, of New York; W. H. Howland, of Toronto; W. H. Kels, of Mississippi; Rev. John C. Collins, secretary of international Christian convention, and a score of others.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood-contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsparilla.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Alice Mitchell to Face a Court of Justice.

She is Charged With Cutting the Throat of Pretty Freda Ward, in Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., Juyl 18.—The celebrated Mitchell case, in which Alice Mitchell is to be tried under a plea of present insanity, which is set up in her behalf in reply to the indictment for the killing of Freda Ward, is again on the docket of the circuit criminal court for trial to-day.

The state has all its witnesses ready, and will press for a trial as soon as the case is called.

VISIT THE CADETS,

Via the Clover Leaf Route.

The Cadets go into camp to-day, covering a period of 10 days, July 16 to 24, inclusive.

The encampment will be held at "The Rapids," noted for beautiful scenery, historical interest, etc.

A staunch steamer plys the Maumee, giving further pleasures of a 15-mile tour equal in scenic effects, though miniature, to the famous Hudson river. Rates very low per capita or by charter.

The Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railway, Clover Leaf Route, will sell excursion tickets to Grand Rapids and return, July 18 to 23, inclusive, at 50 cents. Trains leave Union depot 6:25 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. Leave Grand Rapids, returning, 7:30 a. m. and 9:27 p. m.

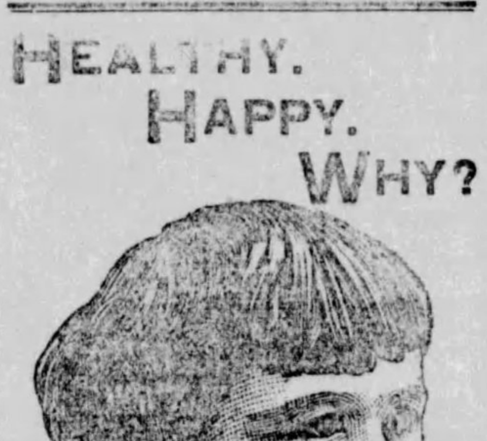
Plans have just been completed for the construction of another great irrigating canal with reservoirs in Arizona, in the Santa Cruz valley, and when it is completed 300,000 more acres of the great American desert will be supplying the finest kinds of fruits and grains and other products for the eastern markets. The canal will be 70 miles long and 30 fee wide at the bottom, and the construction of the works will cost about $1,200,000.

HEALTHY. HAPPY. WHY?



Is he a bright child? Does he look healthy and happy? He is bright, and he is both healthy and happy. He is the little son of Mrs. Henry T. Bowers, wife of the well-known contractor and builder, who resides in Dorchester avenue, South Boston. Mrs. Bowers has had quite an experience with her children, which experience we give in her own words, as follows:

"I have a little boy two and one-half years of age, the perfect picture of rugged health, and also a little girl of four. I attribute their good health and good temper to the use of Dr. Hand's Remedies.

I have used, as occasion required, the entire line, and have had very marked results from the Colic Cure, Cough and Croup Medicine, and the Pleasant Physic. I have never had any but good result from the use of any of them."

No mother would make a statement like the above unless she knew wholly whereof she affirmed.

A little book, illustrated, full of sense and suggestion, will be sent to any one in the land, FREE.

THURSDAY JULY 28.

Only 4 Dollars!

From Tadmor, Findlay, North Baltimore and Points North including Perrysburg.

TO

NIAGARA FALLS AND RETURN.

SPECIAL trains, composed of Pullman and Wagner Sleeping-cars, Parlor Cars and elegant Day Coaches, will leave C. H. & D. Station, Cincinnati, Thursday, July 28th, via the Cincinnati Hamilton & Dayton, at 12:30 P. M.; Union Station, Dayton, at 2:00 P. M. and 3:00 P. M.; making stops only at the most important stations. The run through Ohio is over the C. H. & D. R. R. to Toledo thence over the Michigan Central R. R., via Detroit and Windsor, to Niagara Falls. The beautiful Detroit River is crossed on the mammoth transfer steamer "Landsdowne," the entire train crossing at once, no change of cars being necessary. From Windsor the route is through Canada direct to the Falls, reaching there in time for breakfast Friday morning. Before reaching Niagara Falls Station a most magnificent view of the great Cataract, as shown in the above illustration, is obtained from Falls View, at which point a ten minutes' stop will be made. The United States are again entered over the wonderful cantilever bridge that spans the rapids only a few hundred yards below the Falls.

THE round trip tickets to NIAGARA FALLS will be sold at $5.00 from Cincinnati and all points along the line as far as Dayton, where it will be but $4.50, the latter rate extending as far as Washington C. H., on the C. D. & I. division and Covington on C. D. & C. From Convenience and points south on that division as far as Wellston inclusive the rate will be $5.00. From Tadmor and points north the rate will be $4.00.

The rate to Toronto will be $1.00 more than to Niagara Falls, and persons desiring to visit Toronto after viewing the Falls should purchase their tickets before leaving home, as no tickets will be on sale either on the train or at Niagara Falls.

Tickets for Put in Bay will be on sale at Cincinnati and Steamer Docks, Toledo, O., at the rate of $1.00 for the round trip and stop over will be allowed to those holding Put in Bay tickets. This side trip to be made returning from the Falls. Sleeper berths (accomodating two persons) from Cincinnati to Niagara Falls $2.50; seats in Parlor Car, $1.00.

The Sleepers, while at the Falls, will be located but a short distance from the depot, and arrangements have been made to allow passengers to occupy berths in them at very cheap rates.

TICKETS will be good returning on all trains leaving the Falls up to and including the train leaving at 12:38 P. M. (noon) Tuesday August 2d.

Stop-over will be allowed only at Toledo within the limit of the ticket returning, which is good to leave Toledo as late as 11:45 P. M., Thursday, August 4th 1892. BAGGAGE will be checked on excursion tickets to Niagara Falls.

THOUSAND ISLANDS. Arrangements have been made with the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad for a side trip to this most beautiful of summer resorts. The route is via the R. W. & O. R. R. to Clayton, on the St. Lawrence River, thence by steamer down the river through the Thousand Islands to Alexandria Bay. The cost of this trip will be but $5.00 in addition to the Niagara Falls rate and a limit of ten days given to all desiring to take it. Those however desiring to make this trip must purchase tickets before leaving home, as no tickets will be sold on the train or at Niagara Falls.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 420,558 bu and at five other western points 331,421 bu, aggregate 751,979 bu. On the corresponding Monday in 1891 the receipts were 945,912 bu, but with only 190,310 bu of northwestern wheat.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat 279,291 bu and flour to an aggregate of 330,000 bu. Exports of corn 89,937 bu and oats 35,597 bu. English markets are dull and unchanged for wheat and corn.

Undoubtedly traders were expecting lower prices for wheat to-day, based principally upon increased receipts and only a moderate demand for the cash wheat.

But the markets do not always accommodate the expectations of dealers, and instead of weakness this morning there was firmness and later on an advance.

Part of the firmness may be credited to the corn market, which has been a strong and advancing market.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 684,000 bu., but it will not be likely to show a decrease again for some time, or months, if wheat moves out of farmers' hands as expected.

The visible supply of wheat decreased last week 684,000 bu., corn 340,000 bu., oats increased 52,000 bu. In the corresponding week in 1891 wheat increased 666,000 bu., corn decreased 600,000 bu., oats decreased 43,000 bu.

The shipments of wheat from India certainly begin to indicate a deficient crop as compared with last year. The shipments thence for two weeks have equaled 780,000 bu., compared with 2,950,000 bu. in the two corresponding weeks in 1891.

Grading of Receipts To-Day.

The splendid weather of the past week begins to develop results in our receipts. We have 204 cars of wheat on track this forenoon. There is quite a wide discrepancy in grading, compared with earlier receipts from southern Indiana and Illinois. Only 125 cars graded No. 2; No. 3 66, and No. 4, 6 cars. Seven cars were rejected and smutty. A larger portion of the receipts are from northern Ohio and Indiana, where the wheat is more irregular in quality.

Markets To-Day.

After some irregularity the markets for grain closed firm at a fair advance.

Paris markets for wheat closed higher. Liverpool lower for cash and higher for deferred futures. London is quoted closing higher.

In New York, August and September wheat closed 1 1-8c higher. August corn 1 3-8c, and September 7-8c, and July oats 1-4c, all up.

In Chicago, August wheat closed 7-8c, and September 1c up. August corn 1 1-4c and September 1c up. July oats 5-8c up.

In Toledo the business in wheat opened dull, with a tendency to lower prices, and early sales showed a decline of 1-2c, but as the other markets were firm we soon recovered the loss and prices steadily improved until the close of 'change. July closed about 5-8c, August 7-8c, and September 5-8c over Saturday. On the call wheat was dull and the only sales were for September at 79 3-8c. After the call July sold at 79 3-4 to 79 1-2 and 79 5-8c, and closed at 80 3-4c sellers. August sold at 78 3-4c to 79c, and closed at 80 1-4c sellers. September sold at 79 5-8c and closed at 80 1-2c bid.

Cash wheat was not in very large request, and the sales were light. No. 2 soft sold early at 80c, and at 80 to 80 1-2c for old. At the close the market, cash and July, was 80 3-4c sellers. No. 3 soft cash and July at 74 1-2c. No other grades dealt in.

Corn—No. 2 at 50c. No other grades sold.

Rye—No. 2 for August, on the call at 65c.

Clover seed—October sold at $5.22 1-2.

TOLEDO TRAP SHOOTERS

Take the Sporting Review Trophy from the Buckeyes

Because the Latter Team Did Not Show Up—The Executive Committee Settled It—The Toledeans Challenged.

Toledo has it.

The Sporting Review Trophy.

The disagreement which arose some weeks ago between the Buckeye Gun club, of Dayton, and the Gressy Point Gun club of this city as to the ownership of the Sporting Review Trophy, has been settled by the executive committee of the Ohio Trap Shooters League in favor of Toledo's club.

There is a rule in the O. T. S. L. governing this trophy. It reads:

"The club holding said team trophy shall be subject to challenge and said challenge shall be accepted and match shot within 30 days after date thereof. Should the callenged club fail to accept the challenge or to have their team at the appointed place at the time agreed upon, they shall immediately after deliver to the challenging team the said trophy to hold the same as if the match had been shot and won by them."

It seems the Toledo team challenged the Buckeye team and the latter failed to respond, thus forfeiting the trophy. The Buckeyes did not come up with the trophy and the matter was referred to the executive committee with the decision that commences this article.

The news reached here this morning.

The Toledo team, which is made up as follows: G. A. Spross, J. S. Acklin, H. C. Rushmore, Geo. C. Osborn and alternates Dr. Carter and E. A. Louden will now have to fight to keep the trophy. They have already been challenged by the North Baltimore Gunclub to shoot at an early date. The North Baltimore team is made up as follows: F. Cursse, H. H. Benscoten, B. S. Peers, J. S. Hamilton, with F. P. Clark, I. E. Peters and E. Goodner as alternates.

The fire department had two runs yesterday, the first being to 652 Woodruff avenue, and the second to Lagrange and Bancroft streets. The loss was not great in either instance.

Hundreds of people disported themselves or rested on the lower Summit street river front, below Ash street, yesterday. The scene from this locality is one of the prettiest in the city.

The stairs on the Daniels building, at the corner of Cherry and Summit streets, about which there has been so much dispute, have been taken down, and entrance is now had through the alley.

A postal card from W. M. Wilkinson announces his observance of July 4 in Paris. His Toledo and neighborhood friends will be glad to learn he is O. K., and still pushing Salvini for all he is worth.

It is expected that not less than 300 Toledoans will go on the excursion to Lakeside on Friday, which is to be observed as Epworth League day. Fully ten hours will be spent at this popular religious resort.

The gospel tent on Vermont avenue was filled with worshippers at the services yesterday. Elder Updike is doing good work, and is ably assisted by Mr. Hawes, who leads the singing. To-morrow night the boy orator, Garfield Black, will preach.

George W. Roberts, an entertaining and instructive talker, has been secured by St. John's chapter of the Epworth league for a lecture to-night at the church on Magnolia street, the proceeds of which will go to the chapter's contribution to the pipe organ fund.

Wholesale grocers of the state meet at Columbus to-morrow, to endeavor to agree on a plan to regulate the price of sugar. It is claimed the staple is sold at an actual loss, and the merchants want to at least even things.

The Sunday school of St. Paul's Episcopal church have been tendered an excursion to Devil's lake next Wednesday, July 20. The train will leave the Wheeling depot at 9 a. m., and the Sunday school will depart from the church an hour earlier.

A dispatch from Columbus says: The Ohio executive commission of the world's fair has applied for 500 square feet to exhibit Ohio's fish industry. Charles Kenney will have charge of this department, and will visit Cleveland, Toledo, Sandusky, Huron and Cincinnati at once to arrange for the exhibit.

Official canvass has been made of the votes cast for lieutenant-colonel and major of the Sixteenth regiment, and M. B. Lemmon, of Clyde, and V. O. Bulger, of Fostoria, have been declared duly elected. They will assume their respective positions when the commissions arrive.

Marion Lawrance has disposed of his insurance business to Mr. Charles M. Armstrong. Mr. Armstrong is well known in the city, and has for a number of years past been general superintendent of the Smead foundry. He is a young man of recognized integrity and ability, and his many friends will wish him success in his new undertaking.

The Cleveland World is responsible for the following: W. H. Kohle and H. W. TreDenick, of the Wilbur opera company, are writing a play. Its title will be "Nine Years in a Wilderness, or Whiskers for Everybody." The beard that Kohnle wears in the third act of "Mascot" is an heirloom bequeathed the versatile comedian by a great-grandfather who fought in the siege of Sebastapol. TreDenick's make-up was suggested by a picture in an art gallery of a cowboy about to set fire to a distillery. The cowboy was afterward hanged in Mexico for stealing sheep.

The umbrella is of high antiquity, appearing in various forms upon sculptured monuments of Egypt, Assyria, Greece and Rome, and in hot countries it has been used since the dawn of history as a sunshade—a use signified by its name derived from the Latin umbra, meaning a shade. In the Orient the umbrella has been a symbol of power and royalty, and in many countries it has become part of a religious as well as a royal symbolism.
